HON. S. H. BLAKE ON TRADE AND LOYALTY.

Mr. P. C. Larkin, whose letter approving of the agreement in favor of freer trade in natural products between Canada and the United States appeared in Saturday's Globe, has received from Hon. S. H. Blake the following note, with permission to publish it :-

Blake, Lash, Anglin & Cassels,
Barristers, Solicitors, etc.,
Canadian Bank of Commerce Building,
Cor. King and Jordan Sts.,
Toronto.

Toronto, 18th February, 1911.

P. C. Larkin, Esq., 11 Elm Avenue, Toronto :

My Dear Mr. Larkin,—I read with the greatest pleasure what appeared to me to be a most convincing letter from you in the morning papers of the day. It simply cannot be replied to. There has bulked up in my mind very largely a fact that I have not seen touched upon, and it is that nothing will go so far to make a people absolutely happy and contented and not look for a change as when they have work, reasonable remuneration, and sufficient food and clothing. Now, anything that will tend to bring these results will, therefore, be a vital element in Canada retaining its present position. Not only does Canada not look for a change from England to the United States, but it is absolutely distasteful to Canadians. If permitted to work on the lines that open to them such trade, business, and financial results as will conduce to their prosperity, then they will not think of any change of allegiance; but if they are thwarted in this respect, dissatisfaction will be introduced and change will be desired.

It is always very repulsive to me to find that so many men are now beginning to place the integrity of the British Empire upon the low platform of tariff, trade relations, preference, etc., as if some little change in duty or some little rearrangement of tariff considered to be necessary in the interest of either England or Canada should sever the ties of loyalty and degrade us to the low level of persons who desire to continue the union only because of some material advantage that may arise.

With all best wishes, faithfully yours,

(Signed) S. H. BLAKE.

Toronto Globe, Feb. 21st.

RECIPROCITY.

The Liberal, i.e. Reform party, went into power in 1893 upon a platform of a tariff for revenue only and for extension of trade by reciprocal arrangement.

Their efforts to secure reciprocity with the U. S. did not meet with success. In connection with their determination to extend trade the Preferential policy was put into effect.

This preferential move on the part of the Government called forth the same deluded opposition that the present bill for reciprocity is receiving. Vested interests see in night-mare the ghost of their annihilation.

Under the present Government phenomenal progress has been made

WHITBY CONSERVATIVES ENDORSE RECIPROCITY.

Mayor J. H. Downey, of Whitby, a former resident of Napanee and a well known conservative gives the following opinion of the reciprocity convention :

"Even now, the prospect of a free market for our barley has given rise to a demand for seed greater than for fifteen years. And why shouldn't it? We get 55 to 60 cents for our barley in Toronto, while the New York State farmer gets 70 to 80 cents in Buffalo. In 1880, just before the duty became operative, we shipped 420,000 bushels out of Whitby harbor, receiving in return $220,000 to cash. The duty was 50 cents per bushel."

Keep Your Hands Soft.

At this season of the year it is a problem to keep hands soft. Rexall Toilet Cream will prove a boon to house-keepers. It is not greasy, dries in quickly and leaves the skin soft and velvety. Sold in 25c. bottles at Wallace's Drug Store.

success. In connection with their determination to extend trade the Preferential policy was put into effect.

This preferential move on the part of the Government called forth the same deluded opposition that the present bill for reciprocity is receiving. Vested interests see in night-mare the ghost of their annihilation.

Under the present Government phenomenal progress has been made in every way commercial, and the same narrow financial vision that saw the destruction of the Country in the preference, is now focussed upon the further progressive bill for advancement, not only of trade but of civilization and accordingly derided as a possible means of relieving the masses in fear of a check to class legislation that preys upon the vitals of the people.

It is well to remind the red flag shakers that the people,—the farmers and general masses of citizens—are rather more awake to their views and necessities as each cycle of economics unravels its illusions and false premises to their intelligence, and are fitted to judge more equitably for themselves.

For instance just one example of self concentration to his views of false economics is the expressed opinion of Sir Edward Walker. Forgetful of the people in his views, so absorbed is he in the free trade in his financial operations, in which money receives no check in its commercial ramifications, he sees disaster in a similar free exchange in the other mans commodities, produce etc.

All arguments that are against this reciprocity measure—annexation included—are to be met in the simple presentation of the fact, that the tariff walls of the U. S. are bound to fall. If this bill of Reciprocity is not passed by the U. S. the tariff will be so radically changed under the next House of Congress, that every result will be in extenso of the present fears; and if the same persistency of the class faculty continues, the people of Canada will demand so much more advancement in civilization, free exchange, as will be met and right to prove to the class fraternity that there is a Providence.

The Government has shown itself equal to the "Call of the people."

The manner of and form of this measure is admirable.

There is one more move that the Government should make and that without delay. They should move a further reduction in the preference of twelve and one half per centum making it a twin issue with this Reciprocity measure.

The City of Toronto is aghast at Reciprocity. What is the City of Toronto in favor of? Sir James Pliny Whitney was the incarnation of Revelations worse horned monstrosities when he asked subscriptions by the people of Ontario to a bond issue. It was going to destroy the credit of the Province. The Hon. Adam Beck could speak fluently of the opposition to the Hydro Electric and still Sir James and the Hon. Adam continue to live and Ontario is prospering.

The evils so dreaded by the Reciprocity arrangement will dissolve in a rainbow sky of promise within twelve months of its enactment and the only fear of annexation will be the wish in the future of the U. S. for responsible Government.

Rules for Scarlet Fever.

First of all, call in your physician—see that the case is reported to the Health Officer—and remember that you are personally responsible if the house is not properly quarantined (even if you do not have a doctor) and finally go to Wallace's Red Cross Drug Store and get sufficient quantity of Formaldehyde to fumigate. We will give you proper instructions.

"Even now, the prospect of a free market for our barley has given rise to a demand for seed greater than for fifteen years. And why shouldn't it? We get 55 to 60 cents for our barley in Toronto, while the New York State farmer gets 70 to 80 cents in Buffalo. In 1889, just before the duty became operative, we shipped 420,000 bushels out of Whitby harbor, receiving in return $300,000 in cash. To-day not 20,000 bushels go out in a season. There has been a depreciation in the value of every foot of land on the north shore from which barley formerly was produced. Our harbor was bought for $65,000, but now it is to be taken over by the Dominion Government at a valuation of $20,000. It used to be run at a profit. Since barley shipping ceased, it has been run at a loss."

This Mayor Says Things.

"I think," went on the Mayor, "that the reciprocity agreement will benefit the farmer in every way. The objectors are the manufacturers, who are scared, and a lot of millionaire capitalists, who fear that some of their surplus profits will be sliced off. The fatter the pig, the more grease they want rubbed on their ears. What right have Messrs. Matthews and Flavelle to complain? They are just sore because there is to be competition in barley and live stock buying. As it is, the Canadian Malting Company controls the price of barley, except that marketed, and Mr. Flavelle pretty nearly dictates the price of live stock. All the millionaires are against the agreement. Well, there's a reason."

"Just to show you how free trade works out, I might instance red clover seed, which is already free. We had over $40,000 of this which we couldn't sell for export to the old country with in a dollar of the price we paid the farmers. Why, if there had been a duty on that going into the States, where would we have been? And is a market of 90,000,000 people to the south of us not worth having, even if we didn't use it?"

"Barley growing is going to mean a great era of prosperity for the farmers of this district. It's not like pigs, it isn't eating anything when it's being held for a higher price. I've been a Conservative all my life, but I think the Laurier Government ought to be praised and complimented for accomplishing what Sir John McDonald labored all his life to achieve—and labored in vain."

Apparently there isn't much doubt to what two at least of Whitby's Conservatives think of the prospect of free trade.

Mr. Downey's attitude is endorsed by other leading Whitby conservatives, among them David Galbraith, harbor master, ex-reeve W. B. Pringle and many others.

CENTREVILLE.

Our roads are quite passable the last few days and farmers are busy hawling wood, ice, Hay etc.

The Mud-cat, season is said to be over now as they have ceased running. It has been estimated that over one thousand sacks were taken out of Mud Lake.

McGills' marsh seems to be a favorite resort for our local sports on Sunday afternoons. The ice there is in splendid condition for speeding purposes.

A few of those on the sick list are improving.

Reciprocity between Canada and the United States is being discussed largely by the farmers of this part. If the bill becomes law it will be welcomed by the great majority in this part.

Joseph Barrett, of this place, and Miss Annie O'Rourke, of Warkworth, Ontario, were married on Wednesday, the 22nd.

There is quite a lot of Clover dressing to be done in this vicinity yet.

Several from here attended the euchre party at Chippewa on Wednesday evening.

An epidemic of measles is said to be prevalent.

MESSRS. S. E. SCOTT AND
W. M. SILLS THE FINDERS.

The long lost silver mine situated on Lake Missanaga, known the world over as Myers' Cave, may yet become a reality.

Long before any white man knew anything about this wonderful cave, the Indians camped on the shores of Missanaga Lake, where they lived by trapping and hunting, occasionally entered this cave took out pieces of silver and wherever they went carried it with them in their pockets.
They made many trips to Belleville where they usually went to dispose of their furs.
They generally traded and sold their furs to a man named Myers, who kept a general store at that time in Belleville and upon these trips were always displaying these pieces of silver, which they always had with them. Of course Myers tried his best to find out where they got the silver, but they were like our farmers, they never gave anything away. Myers at that time had a son named John Myers, a young man about 20 years old, who was not in the best of health. The Indians took a great notion to this young man and they told his father if he would let them take him back where they were camped and these pieces of silver, which they always had with them. Of course Myers tried his best to find out where they got the silver, but they were like our farmers, they never gave anything away. Myers at that time had a son named John Myers, a young man about 20 years old, who was not in the best of health. The Indians took a great notion to this young man and they told his father if he would let them take his son back where they were camped and allow him to trap and hunt with them, it would make a strong and healthy man of him. The result was that Myers allowed his son to go back with the Indians where he lived and trapped for about four years and grew into a strong and robust man, enjoying the best of health, but it was a long time before Myers could get the secret from the Indians where the cave existed. Occasionally the Indians would see a large flame of light shoot up where the cave was and in passing by the place in their canoes would hear strange, rumbling sounds, which seemed to come from the cave. The result was that the Indians became superstitious and would not go near it for they said there were spirits in it, but the ghosts or spirits didn't scare Myers any, and in time he succeeded in getting the secret from one of the Indians where the cave was located. After accomplishing this his mission with the Indians was practically ended and he was anxious to get in the cave and see for himself what was there and then get home to Belleville where his people all lived, so as soon as he possibly could he visited the cave on his own responsibility and when he entered; the cave he was simply amazed and astonished at what he saw. There were tons of pure native silver right in sight. It was a cave literally lined with silver. Large heaps of it lay on the floor of the cave and Myers lost no time in breaking off enough silver with his hatchet to fill a bag about half full. He then came out of the cave, covered the entrance with a flat stone and no man has ever seen inside of it from that day to the present time. He immediately placed the bag filled with silver in his canoe and got one of the Indians to accompany him and started for Belleville. In those days there was no Perry Road or any other road to get there, so they had to go all the way by canoe. They got along alright until they reached the place where Plinton now stands. Just below Plinton, while running down the Scout River, their canoe struck a snag or some other obstruction in the river, upset, and Myers lost all the silver he had in the bag and had none left except what he had in his pockets. They continued on their journey and reached Belleville in safety. The Indian took a heavy cold, which turned to pneumonia, and died in about three weeks time. Of course Myers intended to return to the cave again to secure more silver, but unfortunately for him while working in his father's store, in lifting some heavy article he burst a blood vessel and only lived two or three days.

As soon as Myers was taken sick they sent for a minister named Frank Vantassel, who came and stayed by the young man's bedside until he died. It was in this man Vantassel that Myers gave a map of the route to take in order to reach the place where the cave was located, he also told how he could find it by the objects along the lake shore. He told him this cave was near the water and that it lay right back of the anvil rock and near the Indian paintings on the rocks. These paintings can be found on no other lake except on the rocks right in the vicinity of the cave, but the only real clue to where the cave was really located was a hatchet. He told Vantassel that when he came out of the cave he stepped a few paces away, near a wall of rock for some purpose and stuck his hatchet in a Norway pine tree and came away and forgot it. This man Vantassel, being an old man at that time, it was impossible for him to think of making a search for the cave on account of his age, but he had sons growing up and as soon as they arrived at manhood one of them took the map and started out to find the cave. When he reached Lake Missanaga he found the objects along the shore that Myers had mentioned, the anvil rock, the Indian paintings and other things. Myers had told about were all there and he was fully con-

PRACTICAL USES OF DEATH

Here There Is No Longer Any Doubt That
It Is Better to Give Than to Receive

The question of proper lighting is coming to be more vital every day. In the cities there are thousands of workers who do all their work by artificial light, and such places as hotel lobbies, railroad stations, libraries, and the like are now constructed so that artificial lighting is necessary at all hours of the day and night. The importance of preserving the eyes of workers and patrons is therefore brought to the attention of employers and architects with the construction of every new building. The system which stands in highest favor just now is the "concealed light" method, because it saves both light and eyes. It does away with all direct rays and makes a glare impossible. With the source of light hidden much less power is needed to light a given cubic space.

This is fairly familiar, but in this connection certain English reports have brought out a few figures with regard to concealed lighting which are new. For instance, the concealed lighting system of the British museum, which has been found most satisfactory for all purposes, is really only seven one-thousandths as intense as daylight. The light in the woolsack in the house of lords is only six one-thousandths as intense and that of the clerk's desk in the house of commons one twelve-thousandth as intense. This is certainly a cheap enough system, and what is more remarkable universal testimony goes to show that it is pre-eminently satisfactory.

Germany's long suit is education. A close technical training is the knife with which, during the past generation, she has opened her oyster. But one's oyster, as good authority declares, is the world itself—and the world to-day is wider than it was. Germany, having prised open Europe, is preparing to apply the same method to Asia.

According to the dispatches, German capitalists are about to establish a chain of engineering schools in China. Big banks and manufacturers have subscribed liberally to a fund of half a million dollars. This step is taken, evidently, in competition with the Americans and English, who have enjoyed heretofore almost a monopoly in higher instruction in the Orient.

No country has been more successful than modern Germany in welding business and education into a powerful implement for the furthering of worldly success. Her latest action may well awaken new tremors in England and is quite worth watching on the part of the United States.

John C. Dana discusses in The Independent the need of further

"Pragmatism," says Papini, one of the Italian exponents of this new-old philosophy, "lies in the midst of our theories, like the corridor in a hotel."

Which means that, in whatever sectarian or partisan chamber you live in, you must come down to pragmatism if you want to go anywhere.

In other words, we do not need so much to explain and to theorize over the facts and mysteries of life as we need to know what to do with them. The greatest question about anything is not, "Why is it?" but "What will you do with it?"

And right here is where death commends itself to the highest ideals and sweetest instincts of mankind. Its function is to be the revealer of what is worth while in life. Quite apart from the conventional religious teachings about the hereafter, the fact of the irrevocable separation involved in death, the coming of its dread, silent footsteps into the house, casts certain clear, sharp lights upon all human values.

There is this in the atmosphere of death: Reality at last stands revealed. Whatever be the future beyond the grave, when we stand by the cold silence of one whom we knew in the warmth of love, we can have but one supreme wish—that our dealings with the lost and gone had been more unselfish, more forbearing, more loyal, nobler.

You may have fumed and fretted with your child in the heyday of earthly events, but when you come to fold the stiff fingers for the last time over the little breast you ask yourself how much your worry and fret and petulance were worth.

In this garden of death bloom the rarest flowers of life. Here are humility and gentleness, forgiveness and forbearance, sympathy and goodness, reverence and awe.

Why if no one ever died, if the human herd lived on and life had its rude say forever unchecked, we should grow hard and merciless and cruel, our vices instead of being but poison flowers would become sturdy Upas trees, and all the gentler elements of character would take their flight like frightened fairies from a midday wood.

Death, after all, is not harsh and monstrous. He is the sweetest, loveliest prophet of nobility.

We touch the infinite mystery at two points, birth and death. And it is the little babies and the dying men that continually link us to those higher qualities of soul which pertain to the better kind of life.

But the greatest lesson of all which death has for us is the truth about love. Here where the coffin stands there can be no doubt any more that love is "the greatest thing in the world." Here the last wretched excuse we made ourselves for our impatience and fretfulness disappears ashamed.

And here we see things. Here the greed for wealth and luxury and power stands unmasked in all its salt, leprous reality. In the calcium light of death we know, we know through and through our souls, that love was best. We need no minister to read: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and though I have all knowledge, and though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned and have not love, it profiteth me nothing."

There is a pocket in the shroud. But it only holds a handful of love. This then is the practical use of death. It solves no speculative problems, it tells us nothing about the mysteries beyond, but death does show "clear as the sun, fair as the moon, and terrible as an army with banners" that honor and truth, virtue and humbleness of mind, loyalty and purity—and love are the things worth while.

DR. FRANK CRANE.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON,
FEBRUARY 26.

IX.—Elijah Meets Ahab in Naboth's Vineyard, I. Kings 21.
Golden Text, Luke 12. 15.

Verse 1. Jezreel—A city in the territory of Issachar. It occupied an attractive and strong position, being shut in on the south by Mount Gilboa, and buttressed on the north by high cliffs. It is famous mostly as the place where Ahab and Jezebel built their magnificent residence. This palace, as we learn from other parts of the Kings, stood on the eastern side of the city. To guard against sudden invasion there was a tower which held the approach up the valley in full view. The unique thing about the palace was the house built with by Elisha, son of Shaphat. Six years had passed. Was Elijah all this time in retirement, somewhere in the caves of Carmel? We do not know. But it was like him. He comes forth now, not as the champion of orthodoxy, but as the indignant foe of inhumanity and injustice.

20. Has thou found me . . . ?—How much this whole situation reminds us of the fate of many a worldling. Ahab was just about to glut himself with the ill-gotten fruits of his sin. And now, as if the shadow of some lurking fear had been transformed into life, there stands before him the dreaded servant of God, the God whom Ahab had basely thrust away for the sake of a degrading alliance. The man who has sold himself for supposed pleasure or influence will find that he has received but a pittance for his pains, and that the voice of conscience, unheeded for a time, comes back with remorseless accusings.

NEXT WORLD LIKE THIS ONE

FUTURE EXISTENCE ON SOME CELESTIAL BODY.

Life Much the Same—Lillian Whiting Thinks There Will Be Little Difference.

That in the life to come the spiritual beings of men and women will walk, ride (perhaps in automobiles) and eat, much as they do in their earthly existence, and that undoubtedly a community of life of the departed spirits exists on the planet Mars or some such heavenly body, is the conclusion to which Miss Lillian Whiting, Boston's foremost woman writer and thinker, has arrived in her latest attempt to unravel by scientific laws the mysteries of the future, says the Boston Post.

"It would seem to me," said Miss Whiting, "that the change we call death is merely the withdrawal of the spiritual body from the physical body, and that we are much the same person immediately after this that we were before. Only we probably enter on finer conditions and better opportunities for progress."

"The latest discoveries," Miss Whiting argues, "is that the strange substance called ether is the most substantial—perhaps the only substantial thing—in the universe. After the change known as death, when the spirit withdraws from its material envelope, we pass into this ethereal realm and live either in space or

PERHAPS ON SOME STAR

"Does it seem too much to say this? Is it prying too deeply into the secrets of the unknown to say that we, after death, are assigned to live in some definite spot, be it Mars or some far off sun, or even in the ether of space? I think not. 'The unknown is not the unknowable,' said Bishop Brooks.

"For if we live after death, it is obvious that we must live somewhere. And is it not logical that we should live in one community or city, just as we do here? According to my conception, the things we shall find in that community will be very much the same in their general nature as they here. There will be men and women, there will be animals and plants, there will be natural scenery.

"Our forms will be unaltered in that future place. We shall be just the same except, of course, that we shall be refined, idealized, in that more abundant life. If I should undergo that experience called death, here and before your eyes, nothing whatever would happen to my spiritual self. I should merely lay aside my physical body, as I might take off a cloak.

"The things we shall do in heaven will be, I should think, very much the same that we do here. Swedenborg, who was one of the greatest of thinkers, teaches that the physical body is merely the replica, of the spiritual body; if that be true, our form will be the same, and the ethereal body will be the same, and one ethereal body will have its eyes, ears, hands, feet—

THE OUTER COVERING,

latest action may well awaken new tremors in England and is quite worth watching on the part of the United States.

John C. Dana discusses in The Independent the need of further library expansion and development, particularly larger and closer cooperation between schools and libraries. He notes certain good beginnings—small school libraries, for example—and advocates reading-rooms on the ground floor of school buildings, rooms which parents, brothers and sisters of the pupils should be encouraged to patronize freely.

This is an excellent suggestion—one of many such. But Mr. Dana goes deeper and farther back, having something to say about the teaching of teachers. He charges the colleges with complete neglect of the art of reading. They complain, he says, very often that their students cannot write English; how about reading, using and enjoying books properly, the acquisition of a proper vocabulary? Speaking of the neglect of the art of reading in the higher schools and colleges, Mr. Dana says:

The result is that the teachers in our public schools, graduates of our high and normal schools, have not been made to read much; have not learned to read well; read very little during their years of teaching; know little about the literature of and for children; think that it is not of great importance that all children, by constant reading, acquire a large reading vocabulary and gain a firm hold of the tool by the use of which alone thought is possible; are indifferent to books and print; and, finally, do not handle efficiently the collections they may have in their classrooms from a public library, and in many cases are not willing to have such collections.

Whether or not this is too severe an indictment we shall not say, but there is surely enough truth in it to require the attention of colleges and normal schools—as well as of parents. Reading is certainly the finest of all arts and the one that brings the most joy and consolation. Reading requires no endowments and has no geographical limitations: in this age of cheap classics, cheap periodicals, cheap newspapers, public and private circulating libraries. No person need forego inspiring, refreshing, beautiful literature.

HIS PHILOSOPHY.

The Sage—After 40 years of married life I've made up my mind it doesn't matter how often a man and his wife disagree, as long as he don't let her know it.

NOT AT ALL.

"Did that young man kiss you last night?" asked the stern parent. "Well, now, do you suppose he came all the way up here just to hear me sing?" retorted the daughter.

decence. This palace, as we learn from other parts of the Kings, stood on the eastern side of the city. To guard against sudden invasion there was a tower which held the approach up the valley in full view. The unique thing about the palace was the house inlaid with ivory. There were other indications of the worldliness and luxury of the royal pair.

3. Jehovah forbid—Naboth had something besides sentimental reasons for desiring to keep the inheritance of his fathers. The vineyard (2) would no doubt prove a fine addition to the gardens of Ahab, with which he wished to enrich his possessions at Jezreel. But there were sacred considerations why Naboth could not yield it to another, even his king, for any price. It was an unwritten custom (Num. 36) that property should descend in the same tribe and house. This ancient law was a guarantee of the liberties of the people. At some time, possibly before this, but more likely after, this custom came to be written into the statutes of the nation.

4. Heavy and displeased . . . laid him down upon his bed—Like a boy who has been thwarted in gratifying some fond desire. Little wonder that Jezebel came upon him and rebuked his peevishness with the words, Dost thou now govern Israel? (7), words which the Septuagint has fittingly rendered, "Do you play at being king in this way?" Jezebel had qualities more masculine, as well as more malicious, than her husband. Besides, she was a Phoenician, with pronounced foreign views as to the prerogatives of kings, and she did not scruple, therefore, to form a plot for the possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8-10. Notice the insolence of her writing letters in the king's name, and putting his seal upon them, and of proclaiming a fast so as to deceive the people into believing some public calamity had befallen, besides the added touch of venom in her setting the innocent victim on high, in a conspicuous place. Surely Ahab had weakly abdicated his power in Israel, when such corruption could be practiced by an idolatrous woman. The climax was reached when the base fellows, in response to the orders of a fawning local tribunal of elders, were hired to perjure themselves by accusing the guileless Naboth of blasphemy.

13. Stoned him to death—This, was, of course, in keeping with the law, that blasphemy should perish by stoning outside the city.

15. Arise, take possession—According to the custom, the sons of Naboth would perish with him, leaving no heir to his possessions, whereupon the property would revert to the king (compare 2 Kings 9:26, and 2 Sam. 16:3, 4).

16. Ahab rose up to go down—It seems likely he was in his capital at Samaria, twenty miles from Jezreel. He made the journey in his chariot, accompanied by two warrior-youth, Jehu and Bidkar, to whose later testimony we are indebted for some of the details (2 Kings 9:25, 36). The Septuagint says that Ahab greeted the news of Naboth's death with violent manifestations of grief. But he, no doubt, went to claim his new possessions with ardor.

17. Elijah the Tishbite—The last glimpse we had of him was as he strode off from the fields followed pleasure or influence will find that he has received but a pittance for his pains, and that the voice of conscience, unheeded for a time, comes back with remorseless accusings.

21. Cut off from Ahab every man-child—The demolition of the dynasty of Ahab, the eating of the carcass of Jezebel by dogs, the perishing of the king's posterity, and all the wretched details of this tragic affair, which made such an impression in Israel, are recorded in the second book of Kings.

27. Rent his clothes—The prophesied doom of himself and his house was enough to humble any man. Thenceforth he went, softly as a stricken man.

28. Elijah retires as suddenly as he appears, having accomplished the work which Jehovah had sent him to do. Not until four more years have passed shall we see him again.

LONELY OUT OF PRISON.

So He Asks Judge to Send Him Back Again.

A man turned up in Chicago the other day who, it is believed, is trying to break into prison. Why? Because he likes it.

William Robertson stood up and told Judge Kavanagh that he had spent 32 years of his 67 years behind prison walls. This is not counting the months he has laid in county jails awaiting trials.

"Judge, I spent 26 years in Joliet prison," he told the court. "I swore that when I left it last time I would never go back. But, somehow, the feeling comes over me that I want to sleep there again. Prison ain't such a bad place to be unless you got a grudge. You get good grub and you're treated square. I ain't got any folks, nor any friends, nor any home."

"I've been in so many prisons that I guess that I'm a pretty good judge of 'em. I like Joliet the best. They treat you real white there. The world's a cold place for a man like me, and thoughts of Joliet kinder make me homesick. I don't want to go to the poorhouse."

BAD CASE.

"My wife faints on the slightest provocation."

"What do you use to resuscitate her?"

"The last time it took a sealskin coat."

Try doubling your own joy by halving another's sorrow.

Politician—"I want to talk to you, sir, about a remark you made concerning me in your paper. You called me a political jobber, sir?" Newspaper Man—"Yes, it was a very annoying printer's error, and I promptly discharged the compositor." Politician—"Ah! Then you didn't mean to call me a 'jobber'?" Newspaper Man—"No, sir. I wrote 'robber' very distinctly."

Short—"I thought you were going to drown that cat?" Long—"Well, they say a cat has nine lives, but this one has twenty, I think. Why, I actually put that cat into a tub of water and tied a brick round its neck; and what do you think?" Short—"Goodness knows." Long—"Well, this morning when I went to look at the tub the cat had swallowed all the water and was sitting on the brick."

THE OUTER COVERING, of the spiritual body; if that be true, our form will be the same, and the ethereal body will be the same, and one ethereal body will have its eyes, ears, hands, feet—all, in short, that the physical body has. Why should we not walk and talk and work and pursue our aims there as we do here?

"There may be vehicles not so unlike our motor cars there moving by some form of electric energy; and surely our intellectual and moral interests will create occupations for us as they do here."

"Psychic research reveals to us that there are lectures, preaching, music and art there, and, in fact, all that makes for our development and for being of use to others."

"Shall we take food there?" she was asked.

"Perhaps the ethereal body may have its own demands for some form of sustenance, why not? The spiritual body will need food, just as the physical body needs it, although, of course, it will be of a different kind."

"Foods, by their reaction on the vital powers, are a contributing factor to the purity of the inner life. It is not that it is morally wrong to partake of one thing and morally right to choose another, but it is that the food that hinders the physical mechanism from being the best possible vehicle of expression for the higher energies offers its own reason for its elimination. "As it is the psychic body which is the motive power, the food should be selected with some reference to this delicate and

ETHEREAL ORDER OF BEING.

The quality of food controls and pre-determines achievement to a far greater degree than is generally realized.

"Animal food produces in us coarse and harsh vibrations; it is not suited to this finer self, this ethereal body. The food that is best adapted to this psychic body is that of grains and fruits."

"What about sleep?" she was asked.

"Many people believe sleep and death are much alike, the only difference being that in sleep the withdrawal from the physical body is merely temporary and partial, while in death it is final and complete. And I, for one, believe that in sleep we are often released into the ethereal world, and that many so-called dreams of our friends who have died are really actual meetings and talks with them, spirit to spirit."

"This journey of the spiritual body from the earth to its abiding place is not unusual. It could be no more strange to us to-day than the wireless telegraph could have been to the men of fifteen years ago."

"There is nothing scientifically impossible about it. It is mechanically plausible. In ether there is no friction, and without friction a body will move on forever when once it is started. Besides, in our other life we shall live more freely, more easily. We shall not be hampered by the obstacles which now beset us."

"There will be much to do in that other world. Although there will be none of the physical wants to be provided for which now take up so much of our time, there will be limitless opportunity for development both of

ONE'S SELF AND OTHERS.

"For there will be progress; we must not think of the next life as a final state. There will be the opportunity to go farther and farther onward. This life on earth, and the next life in the other—all these are but steps on the flight of stairs leading upward and on.

"For there have been worlds before this, just as there are worlds after this. Progress in any of these stages means farther advancement in the one which is to come. It is apparent that the better men and women in this world will have an advantage in the next. They will be there, as they have been here, the helpers of their fellow beings. They will be writing books in their houses or delivering lectures in their universities or preaching sermons in their temples.

"All, then, that we do in this world will be of benefit in the hereafter. Many in this world are more developed than others. Many perceive something of life beyond. Many have prepared themselves for what is to come.

"To sum up it is in the ether of space that one must search for those conditions that surround the next phase of life immediately following the change called death.

"The life abundant is becoming to us a definite term, a phrase that is invested with a certain clear and comprehensive significance.

"Silence is penetrating into the nature of ether; into its problems of light, electricity and magnetism. And it is revealing to man the existence of a superphysical world, apparently adapted to a superphysical life.

"Dr. Percival Lowell discovers conditions on Mars that argue the direction of an intelligent consciousness, and he postulates the existence of an intelligent life. This is but one of the examples of science, verifying that which has been laid down previously by thought and religion."

A PREHISTORIC ZOO.

Representations of 30 Ancient Monsters on Shore of Lake.

The latest attraction at Carl Hagenek's famous animal park at Stellingen, near Hamburg, Germany, is a series of representations of the great monsters that inhabited this earth in the distant past. In all, thirty have been erected, but more are to follow.

These beasts of the past occupy a portion of the grounds to themselves. They have been built up of cement by J. Palenbourg, around the shores of a little lake.

The animals are depicted standing by the water's edge amid the shrubs and trees while in the lake itself, says the Strand, are shown huge crocodiles and strange looking creatures, half fish and half mammal. Additional realism is added by representing a few of the beasts in the act of battling with specimens of their kind.

There are several representations of the dinosaurs, including the iguanodon, which towers some twenty-five feet in the air, making the trees around look quite small, the diplodocus, whose length of 66 feet and height of 18 feet render the modern elephant a mere pygmy; the stegosaurus, with its bony plates on its back and spikes on its tail; the triceratons, with its three horns on its face and huge collar of

TESTED RECIPES.

Corn Beef Hash.—Buy a good piece of corned beef—the rump piece is best, especially the half with little bone. Put in large kettle and cover with boiling water; keep gently boiling until tender, supplying water as fast as it boils away. No vegetables except potatoes should be boiled in the water or with the meat. When meat is tender take it out and set away the water in which it was boiled to cool. Take off the fat that rises when it is cold. My mother called it "the top of the pot" and thought good hash could not be made without it. Use one-third more cold boiled potatoes than meat. Remove all gristle, but leave some fat, not too much. Chop the meat about half enough, then put in the potatoes and chop all together about the size of small peas. Pepper (and salt it if necessary) should be added while chopping, to avoid mixing or stirring when cooking. Never grind meat for hash. Now take some of the "top of the pot," perhaps a couple tablespoonsful, according to amount of hash to be cooked—judgment is necessary here—melt it in an iron spider, put in the hash and press into shape a little, dot it over with small pieces of butter, or if butter is scarce use little pieces of the same tallow as was put in first; cover closely, and set over a very slow fire or an asbestos mat, and let warm through slowly. Examine, and if it looks dry add a few drops of milk here and there—cream is better, never water—till it is soft, cohesive mass, but not wet. Hash should not be stirred when cooking, and it can be prepared as above and baked if desired. Good hash is delicious, but many concoctions called by the name are an abomination.

Flaky Pie Crust.—For a large pie take one and three-fourths cups of flour, from one-half to three-fourths cup of lard, according to richness desired. Mix the flour, lard, and a little salt quickly but well together, then take out as much of the mixture as you can hold in your closed hand, say a couple of tablespoonfuls, and lay one side on the board. Wet the remainder, a few drops at a time, with ice cold water, only sufficiently to make it hold together, working it as little as possible. Cut off enough for lower crust, roll, and put on pie tin, trimming off all that is superfluous, wet edges, and fill with desired fruit. Take the large piece of crust, spread, and hollow it out a little with the hands (it is easier to do than to tell), then put the mixture of flour and lard that was laid one side in centre, gather edges around and over, and put the trimmings from lower crust on, turn it over with smooth side up, roll out, and use as usual.

Bachelor's Pudding.—Six eggs, one cupful of dry bread crumbs, two tablespoons of butter, one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of cloves, one-half nutmeg grated, one cup of sugar, three large apples chopped, one and one-half cups of currants. Steam two hours, use any kind of sauce.

thickly on top; cut out with a large cookie cutter and press a raisin or nut in the centre of each; just before putting in the oven take the tip of the finger and wet the top, and the cookies will be crinkly and crisp. If sweet milk or water is used two teaspoonfuls of baking powder in place of soda.

Ginger Cookies.—One cup of brown sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of lard, one cup of boiling water, into it dissolve one tablespoon of soda; one teaspoon of ginger, and flour to make soft dough. Roll out and bake same as cookies.

DON'TS FOR PARENTS.

Don't talk about children in their presence.

Don't rebuke or praise children before visitors.

Don't allow children to interrupt any one who is speaking.

Don't bring up children at hotels and boarding houses if it can possibly be avoided.

Don't allow children to make unfavorable comments about people.

Don't take children travelling except when it is absolutely necessary.

DOMESTIC POINTERS

To cool a hot dish in a hurry, place it in a vessel full of cold salt-water.

If mixed with milk instead of water mustard will not get dry, but will keep nice and fresh until it is all used up.

A good way to tell when ham is fried enough is by the fat. When the fat is brown (not burnt) the ham is done.

A little vinegar put in the water in which eggs are poached will keep them white and prevent them from spreading.

If you want to keep lemons string them with a packing-needle and hang them in a dry place, but do not let them touch each other.

When using valuable vases for table decorations fill them with sand, for this makes them stand firmly, and renders them far less liable to be knocked over and broken.

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water, allowed to come to the boil, and then cool, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

When lace curtains are to be washed baste a narrow strip of muslin along each outer edge, and let it remain until the washing and drying process is completed, and you will find your curtains straight, and they will not sag.

The following method of cleaning a clock is simple and inexpensive: Take a bit of ordinary cotton-wool—about the size of an egg—pour about a teaspoonful of coal oil on the wool, and after placing it inside the clock, wait three or four days. If the clock is in working order, so much the better. Your clock will, if going, strike as of old, and at the end of the specified time, if the wool is examined, it will be found black with dust. The explanation is that the fumes of the oil loosen the particles of dust, and they fall, leaving the clock quite clean.

The cleaning of saucepans is very imperfectly understood in many houses, but it is most important. Each time that a saucepan has been used, it should be put over the fire with clear cold water and a little soda in it. When this is hot it

ISLAND NOT MUCH KNOWN

LIES MIDWAY BETWEEN SPAIN AND AFRICA.

Iviza, of the Balearic Islands—The Etiquette of Rustic Courtship.

With regard to Iviza, the third in importance of the Balearic Isles, which lies midway between Spain and Africa, its complete history has never been, and never will be, written. From the fragmentary records existent, one gathers that from earliest days occupation of the lovely and fertile island was hotly contested. Chaldeans, Egyptians, Phoenicians, Romans, Greeks, Vandals, Saracens and Moors fought for its possession. Since the Aragonese invasion of the thirteenth century Iviza has belonged to Spain. Here are some interesting details of the life of the people. Describing the Sunday morning scene, when the country folk came to town to mass and to market.

WOMEN RODE MULES.

Some of the women rode mules, sitting perched on a high pile of sheep skins, their multi-colored petticoats billowing about their neat ankles; others were packed closely into open carts that had cushions placed low on either side of their sagging floor matting. With its flippant hues and staid cut the native dress was a bewildering combination of garishness and sobriety.

They say there are ten men for every woman in Iviza, and the aspect of the roads on that sunny April morning inclined us to believe the report, for from every direction came fine, strapping fellows moving in droves. In striking contrast to the expansive attire of the women, the men's dress appeared designed to accentuate their natural slimmness. The trousers of richly-colored velvet or plush fitted closely to the limbs, except at the ankles, where they spread widely; while their further adornments were gaily hued shirts or short, full blouse jackets and bright saris-es.

LAVISH HATS.

The popular large felt hats were lavishly adorned with gold cords; and in addition to one necktie for use, it was customary to add a second, and even a third, for show. As the morning advanced, a moving throng, resplendent in color, crowded the market place. Girls, temporarily free from their chaperones, were parading in decorous rows, their hands, holding pocket-handkerchiefs, heavily edged with crochet lace, sedately crossed over their short but voluminous green silk aprons.

It was perhaps only to be expected that wherever we saw a bevy of girls a corresponding cluster of men would be at hand. Yet we rarely saw them address one another. The modern etiquette of a rustic courtship in Iviza is clearly defined. A plentitude of suitors being assured, it is the maiden who makes the selection. The admirers of a marriageable girl wait for her outside the church door on Sunday, and when she leaves mass the one the diplocodus, whose length of 66 feet and height of 18 feet render the modern elephant a mere pygmy; the stegosaurus, with its bony plates on its back and spikes on its tail; the triceratons, with its three horns on its face and huge collar of spikes around its neck; as well as representations of the sloth, dodo and mammoth.

There are even huge flying reptiles with an enormous spread of wings, birds with formidable teeth, not to mention giant lizards, tortoises and toads, compared to which the present living specimens are in size no more than a dog to a cart horse. Some of these tortoises and toads are twelve feet and more in length.

WERE 47 LYNCHINGS.

Number Ten Less in 1910 Than the Year Before.

Lynchings in the United States, excluding murders or killings in armed race conflicts, numbered only 47 in 1910, against 57 in 1909, 65 in 1908, 51 in 1907, and 68 in 1906. There are no official records of these occurrences, and newspaper dispatches sometimes record as lynchings what fuller information proves to be murders or killings in armed conflicts.

Of the 47 lynchings in the year just ended all but five were of negroes, and 25 of the 47 were for attacks on white women or girls. One of the most notable lynchings of the year was that of a Mexican burned at the stake for assaulting and murdering a white woman at Rock Springs, Tex., November 3.

All the lynchings of the year, except the one at Newark, Ohio, were in Southern States.

HAD DONE HER BEST.

His wife had been doing a shopping stunt.

"How much did you spend today?" asked her husband.

"Fifty-four dollars and nineteen cents," she replied.

"Oh, was that all?" he queried, somewhat ironically.

"Yes," answered the other half of the matrimonial combine with an injured air, "that was all I had."

THE EXPLANATION.

Hyker—What do you mean by saying that young Shortleigh embarked on the matrimonial sea in the steerage?

Pyker—Well, you see his salary is only $7 a week.

FEMININE ECONOMY.

Mrs. Knicker—The lobster she ate cost her a hundred dollars in doctors' bills.

Mrs. Bocker—And she only ate it to keep it from going to waste.

THE REASON.

Restaurant Proprietor—So you were in your last place for three years. Why did you leave?

New Chef—I was pardoned.

GOOD, IN SPITE OF HIMSELF.

"What sort of a speech did he make at the banquet?"

"Not bad. He was allowed only three minutes to talk, you know."

Be sure you are right—but don't forget there are others.

teaspoon of cloves, one-half nutmeg grated, one cup of sugar, three large apples chopped, one and one-half cups of currants. Steam two hours, use any kind of sauce.

BANANA NUT SALAD.

Boil one-half cup each of sugar and water five minutes. Add juice of one-half lemon and boil two or three minutes. Select small, ripe bananas, peel and roll each banana in cold syrup and then in chopped nuts. Dispose on heart leaves of lettuce; put dressing on each and sprinkle dressing with bits of candied cherries. Dressing: Put beaten yolks of four eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, dash of paprika, one tablespoonful of lemon juice into a saucepan. Set over hot water, stir until it thickens, and when cool beat into one-third cup of heavy cream beaten solid. This salad is easily made during the winter months when fresh fruit is scarce and expensive, and the whites of the eggs can be used next day for a meringue, for a cranberry and banana pudding.

CAKE.

Sunshine Cake.—Six fresh eggs, one cupful flour, pinch of salt, one and one-fourth cups sugar (granulated), one-half teaspoon cream tartar, one-half teaspoon almond or vanilla extract. To make: First separate your eggs, putting the yolks in small bowl and the whites in your mixing bowl; beat the yolks with a revolving beater until light and add salt to the whites; whip with a wire whip until frothy, then add the cream tartar, whip until stiff and dry. Meanwhile have the sugar with about three tablespoonfuls of water boiling slowly until it hairs from the spoon, as it does when making boiled frosting; pour this on the beaten whites and beat well; when partly cool add the yolks and beat until well mixed; now add the flavoring and the cup of flour, measured with measuring cup after being sifted five times; place around the edge of bowl and fold in lightly towards the center, using the egg whip for mixing it in; do not beat; keep the mixture light and foamy; pour in a medium sized angel cake pan, ungreased; start to bake in cool oven, turning the gas burner quite low until the cake has raised to the top of the pan, then increase the heat slightly to finish baking. Will raise in from twenty-five to thirty minutes and will bake in fifteen to twenty; when done the cake will shrink slightly from the sides of the pan; take from the oven and invert cake until cake is cold; remove from pan and ice with a boiled white frosting; best results come with the use of cake flour. You will notice that boiling the sugar before pouring on the whites is a new idea which assures its fine texture. This recipe makes a large, light cake, suitable for children's birthday cake when nicely ornamented, as it really is a golden angel food when properly made.

COOKIES.

Splendid Cookies.—One sifter of flour, one teaspoonful soda, and pinch of salt; sift and then take lard and mix in, as for pie dough. Two cupfuls of brown sugar; flavor with mapleine and vanilla; roll out and sprinkle granulated sugar

The cleaning of saucepans is very imperfectly understood in many houses, but it is most important. Each time that a saucepan has been used, it should be put over the fire with clear cold water and a little soda in it. When this is hot it should be poured away, and the saucepan and its lid well scoured with soap and sand, the outside being freed from all black and dirt by means of a stiff brush kept specially for the purpose.

NEW LOCKJAW CURE.

It is Said to Have Been Successfully Tested.

Doctors in Mankato, Minn., who have been experimenting with lockjaw and cures for it have discovered in a simple injection of Epsom salts into the spinal column what is believed to be a prompt and speedy cure for tetanus.

Because of their professional ethics the doctors have not allowed their names to be used in connection with the remarkable cures which have been effected, but a case recently which came to light proves almost conclusively that the new remedial agent works and can be depended on quite generally.

Herman Mattion of Amboy lost one of his fingers in a corn-sheller, and following an operation lockjaw set in, from which it was not thought he could recover. The two doctors in question were appealed to as having conducted many experiments with tetanus and administered their Epsom salts treatment, at the same time giving out their secret, which has hitherto been unpublished, although several cases had been successfully handled previously. This case was the most pronounced in which a speedy cure was effected.

According to the medical men there have been but eleven cases of tetanus cured in the United States.

HISTORY VS. NONSENSE.

Little Robbie came home one day considerably agitated over a question that had come up in school. Rushing into the house he demanded of his father:

"Say, pa, who was Demosthenes?"

Bobbie's papa was one of those individuals who was dissatisfied with the general trend of modern educational methods, and frowned on the so called frills and frivolities injected into the classroom work.

"Demosthenes," he answered sharply, "was one of the early kings of Egypt. I don't see why the schools don't cut out some of their nonsense and teach history."

A SOLOMON'S RULING.

Two women on a train, seated together, held each a covered basket. From one a faint shuffling noise proceeded; while from the other came, now and then, an indignant purr.

The conductor came by.

"Dogs ain't allowed on this train," said he.

"This is a cat!" protested the owner of the purring basket.

"Makes no difference—dogs ain't allowed," repeated this stolid logician.

"Must I get off, too?" enquired the other woman. "I have a turtle in the basket."

"No, ma'am, turtles is insects, but cats is dogs," he told her.

A plentiful number of suitors being assured, it is the maiden who makes the selection. The admirers of a marriageable girl wait for her outside the church door on Sunday, and when she leaves mass the one who has the prior claim presents himself and walks beside her for the first portion of the homeward journey. Then, at a given point, or within a stated time limit, he yields place to the second, and the second to a third, until the number is exhausted.

PISTOLS FOR FALSE SUITORS.

If any suitor seeks to transgress the unwritten law, pistols may flash and knives are apt to spring. In all other matters the people of Iviza are peaceable, and on all points moral and virtuous. It must be admitted that certain of the more frolicsome spirits still keep up the custom of saluting the maidens of their choice with a charge of rock salt aimed at the ankles, and it is devoutly to be hoped that the unwieldy masses of petticoats serve at least one useful purpose by shielding the wearers from the saline missiles of love's artillery.—Mary Stuart Boyd in Chambers' Journal.

EX-SULTAN HAMID INSANE.

Killed Two of His Wives Before He Was Overcome.

Abdul Hamid, former Sultan of Turkey, has gone violently insane, has killed two of his wives, and is now confined in irons.

The murder of the two women, who were among those who accompanied Abdul Hamid from Constantinople when he was exiled by the Young Turks, was particularly cruel. He choked one of them to death with his own hands, and dashed the other so violently against the wall that she died a few hours later, according to one of the men who have been guarding the deposed ruler at his villa, where he is spending his last days.

The ex-Sultan was subdued only after a fierce struggle in which he himself was severely injured.

Abdul Hamid is confined in a dungeon beneath the villa Allatie which, while set apart for him as a residence, is in reality his prison. He was sent therein April, 1909, when the Turkish revolution brought about by the Young Turk party was finally completed, and Sultan Mohammed V. ascended the throne.

Abdul Hamid had reigned for thirty years up to that time, had deluged his empire in blood and had kept 200,000 spies to betray their fellow-citizens. He was noted for having tricked the diplomats of all Europe and from time to time shocked the world by his sensuality and crimes.

When Abdul was sent to the villa at Salonika, his suite, which was allowed to accompany him, was composed of three Sultanas, or full wives, four Cadines, or inferior wives; five Haffas, or lady housekeepers privileged to go out of the harem, two Princes, his daughter and nine servants. This really gave him the allowance of twelve wives.

ONTARIO'S NEW MILK BILL

Municipalities Obtain Complete Control Over Milk Supply

A new bill based on the recommendations made to the Ontario Legislature last session by the Provincial Milk Commission was introduced in the House on Wednesday by the Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture. It is entitled "An Act Respecting the Production and Sale of Milk for Human Consumption," and seeks to embody in its scope all the legislation bearing on this subject.

WHAT BILL DOES.

The bill does two things. First, it gives municipalities complete control over their milk supply. Secondly, it sets general standards for the province in regard to certain matters. The principle followed is that the municipality in which the milk is to be consumed should have complete control in the matter of the production, care and sale. With this object in view, municipalities are given power to pass by-laws making regulations as to the care of cows, the sanitary condition of the places where cows are kept, the water supplied to cows, the care of utensils used in handling milk, the proper storage and transportation of milk, the making of bacteriological tests as a guide to the wholesomeness of milk, and such other matters as may be considered necessary.

Councils are also authorized to fix standards for butter fat and total solids, but it is provided that "no milk shall be sold for human consumption which contains less than 12 per cent. of solids, of which 3 per cent. shall be butter fat." In addition to this, stringent provisions are made to prevent adulteration.

Councils are empowered to appoint inspectors, who are given authority to inspect the source of supply, as well as every other point at which the milk might be contaminated.

NO TUBERCULOSIS MILK.

As to tuberculosis, it is provided that no milk shall be sold from any cow which, upon physical examination by a certified veterinarian, shall be declared to be suffering from tuberculosis of the udder or milk glands, or whose milk, on bacteriological or microscopical examination is shown to contain tubercle bacilli.

It is provided that no cans or other utensils used in the distribution of milk shall be used for any other purpose, and all must be thoroughly cleansed before again being used.

The other clauses of the bill deal with special classes of milk. For instance, municipalities are empowered to establish and maintain or assist in the establishment and maintenance of milk depots to furnish a special supply of milk for infants.

The term "certified" is protected by incorporating the conditions which must be complied with before it can be used, and by providing that these conditions must be certified to either by the Medical Health Officer or an incorporated society of medical practitioners.

PASTEURIZED MILK.

Similarly, it is provided that it shall be unlawful to apply the word "pasteurized" to any milk unless it has been subjected for at least 20 and not more than 30 minutes to a temperature of not less than 140 and not more than 145 degrees Fahrenheit and at once cooled to 45 degrees Fahrenheit or under and kept at that temperature until delivered.

All the clauses at present in the statutes bearing on milk for human consumption are repealed.

ed over China's persistent violation of the terms of this treaty, and this feeling has been greatly aggravated by constant attempts on the part of China to disregard provisions for other treaties.

ITALIAN EARTHQUAKE.

Wild Panic Ensues and Several People are Injured.

A despatch from Rome says: An earthquake, which from its violence led to the belief here that it must have been tremendously destructive, shook Central Italy on Sunday morning, especially the provinces in the compartimento of Emilia, the Marches and Tuscany. The damage, however, was not great. Several buildings were damaged at Forli and Casena. One occupied house collapsed and many chimneys fell. A child's shoulder and a man's arm were broken. A wild panic seized the people. Many people were attending early mass. They rushed out of the churches and several were thrown down and crushed or bruised. The shock was less violent, though considerable, elsewhere.

BUSINESS IN THE WEST.

Winter's Grip on Transportation Lines Relaxing.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Improvement in transportation conditions is a feature of the commercial situation in the western Provinces this week, and the companies are making a vigorous effort to catch up with their traffic. Stalled freight trains have been released and sent on their way, and merchants are receiving shipments which they hoped to get about the beginning of the year. Mild weather is responsible for the change of course, and it has incidentally stimulated buying for spring. Retail dealers have been holding back in uncertainty as to the climatic outlook, and the higher temperatures have encouraged them to stock up.

BEAT WIFE TO DEATH.

Montreal Woman Succumbs to Severe Injuries.

A despatch from Montreal says: Mrs. Thomas Waterhouse, whose husband beat her over the head with a baseball bat on Wednesday night of last week because, as he said, she was always belittling the children by his first wife, died in the General Hospital on Saturday last at noon without regaining consciousness. After beating his wife Waterhouse walked around to the police station and notified the police of what he had done, and expressed the opinion that he had made a good job of it. The police are of the opinion that he is mentally deranged. The couple came out from England about ten years ago.

GERMANY TO MAKE THREATS.

Disclosure of Alarmist Forecast Causes Sensation.

A despatch from London says: The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Telegraph says a deep impression has been made there by the disclosure of an alarmist forecast which the German Ministers are alleged to have made in strict confidence to the Reichstag Committee. The words, as published, are to the effect that Germany would soon have to speak in menacing tones, and would, therefore, need Russia's friendship. The correctness of the words is denied, but the fact is admitted. Some member of the Reichstag Committee

CHILDREN'S SCALP SORES ARE HEALED BY ZAM-BUK.

Some children are particularly liable to scalp sores, etc., and often these break out with annoying frequency. Such a case was that of the daughter of Mrs. Albert Gaedike, of 485 Amherst St., Montreal. Mrs. Gaedike says: "My little three year old daughter suffered frequently from scalp disease, and try as we would, we could not rid the little one of this. We tried everything we could think of, but failed to effect a cure, until we were advised to try Zam-Buk. This balm seemed entirely different to anything we had ever tried before and from first applying it there was a marked improvement. The sores became less inflamed and less irritable. After a few days, they ceased to trouble the child; and in less than a fortnight from first commencing with Zam-Buk, they were completely healed. In view of these facts I feel it my duty to let mothers know how beneficial Zam-Buk is."

There is no doubt that for scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, frost bite and similar sores, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It is just as good for piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns and scalds. Rubbed well in over the affected part, it cures rheumatism, etc., etc., and rubbed into the chest it relieves the tightness and feeling of weight due to contracting a bad cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try Zam-Buk soap too.

TO OCCUPY KULJA.

Russia Will seize China Possession to Enforce Treaty Rights.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: The Retch states that Kulja, 45 miles over the frontier, in the Ili region of Chinese Turkestan, is to be occupied in accordance with the decision arrived at by the Government because of China's persistent disregard of the treaty of 1871. Under the terms of that treaty Russia agreed to evacuate the Ili region, which she occupied in 1871 on condition that she received certain Chinese and Chinese commercial privileges in Manchuria and Mongolia. Russia has become irritated over China's persistent violation of the terms of this treaty, and this feeling has been greatly aggravated by constant attempts on the part of China to disregard provisions for other treaties.

BIG RAILWAY MOVE REVIVED.

C. P. R. May Parallel G. T. R. From Montreal to Toronto.

A despatch from Montreal says: The rumor is revived here of a Canadian Pacific Railway line paralleling the Grand Trunk to Toronto. Part of the big expenditure in Toronto is said to be called for on account of this. The new line will commence at Bathurst, ten miles west of Smith's Falls, and proceed southwesterly to Belleville. The whole of this line, it is said, will be double-tracked, and as the line between Smith's Falls and Montreal is double-tracked already, the C. P. R. will have a double track all the way between this city and Toronto, and an alternative route between Smith's Falls and Toronto and will reach all the important industrial communities between Montreal and Toronto now served by the Grand Trunk alone. Work will commence, it is said, in the spring.

SANITARY CONFERENCE.

In View of Plague in China Date Has Been Advanced.

A despatch from Paris says: In view of the plague in Northern China it has been decided to advance the date of the proposed International Sanitary Conference, and France is inviting all nations to send delegates to Paris in May to study means of fighting epidemic.

MONTREAL WATER SCARCITY

Reservoir Is Going Down at the Rate of Ten Inches a Day

A despatch from Montreal says: From a report made to Chief Engineer Jamn, of the city on Wednesday, the serious fact was brought to light that the water in the big reservoir on the mountain is going down at the rate of ten inches a day. Mr. Jamn stated that if this condition of affairs should continue the outlook was that serious difficulties would be encountered in the matter of giving citizens a satisfactory supply. The cause is a most peculiar one. It appears that owing to the intense frost this winter the ice has got so thick near where the city's intake is situated at Lachine that the water is lowering rapidly every day. There are places where the ice is so very thick that it has actually touched the bottom. The ice in the open aqueduct, which conveys the water to Montreal, is also abnormal in thickness. While a water famine in the city is not expected, officials of the water department are concerned at the difficulty they are experiencing in getting a proper volume of water to pump.

At $4.25 to $4.50 for ewes, $3.25 to $3.75 for rams, and $6 to $6.50 for lambs. Hogs, $6.90 per cwt. for shipments f.o.b. cars at country points, and $7.20 fed and watered at the market.

consequence to the Reichstag Committee. The words, as published, are to the effect that Germany would soon have to speak in menacing tones, and would, therefore, need Russia's friendship. The correctness of the words is denied, but the fact is admitted. Some member of the Reichstag Committee must have divulged the secret.

RUSSIAN COLONISTS.

Large Number From Siberia Will be Settled in Canada.

A despatch from Montreal, says: A big colony of Russian immigrants, picked families from Siberia, will be brought to this country, viz. Dalny, Manchuria, and Vancouver, and settled on the eastern section of the C.P.R. irrigation block in Alberta, as soon as Spring opens. These settlers are said to be intelligent farmers, and among the most desirable citizens coming into the country, each with a considerable sum of money to enable him to begin operations successfully. Alberta is also to be invaded in the Spring by a colony of Norwegians, whose representatives visited the province last fall and purchased some 3,500 acres of land in the irrigation block.

FLAGS TO FLY ON THE BORDER

Will be Hoisted Every Day on Government Buildings.

A despatch from Ottawa says: In the House on Thursday Col. Sam. Hughes suggested that the Union Jack be flown on all Government buildings on March 1st, the feast of St. David, the patron saint of Wales. Mr. Pugsley promised to take the suggestion into consideration. He said that the Government had been discussing the proposal that the flag should fly over all Government buildings every day, and had decided that at least such a course should be adopted in all border cities and towns and at seaports.

GETS $3,500 DAMAGES.

Victim of Spanish River Wreck Recovers From Railway.

A despatch from Montreal says: After three-quarters of an hour's deliberation on Thursday afternoon, the jury in the case of Paul Dinowert against the Canadian Pacific Railway brought in a verdict for $3,500 damages against the company, with costs. The action was brought by Mr. Dinowert to recover $14,854 from the company as damages for nervous breakdown and incapacity for business as a result of the Spanish River wreck.

KAISER TO VISIT LONDON.

Will Attend the Unveiling of National Memorial to Late Queen.

A despatch from London says: The announcement that Emperor William would attend the ceremony of unveiling the national memorial to Queen Victoria in front of Buckingham Palace on May 16 is confirmed. His Majesty will be accompanied by Empress Auguste Victoria, and it is expected that the two will be the guests of King George and Queen Mary for several days.

DEAD NUMBER THOUSANDS

Statistics Show Appalling Mortality From the Dread Plague

A despatch from Pekin says: The Chinese Government on Wednesday applied to the Missionary Medical Association headquarters at Shanghai asking for the despatch of additional physicians to the north. The appalling magnitude of the devastation caused by the plague is revealed by the estimates. The minimum estimate of the deaths from plague from Chang-Chun to the north is 20,000. The estimate for Southern Manchuria, based upon statistics of the Japanese railway administration, exceeds 2,500. A conservative estimate for the provinces of Chih-Li and Shan-Tung is 2,500. While it is impossible to obtain reliable statistics, particularly from the region north and east of Harbin, where the epidemic is raging with unabated fury, 25,000 as a total is more likely to be an under-estimate than an over-estimate. The Viceroy of Manchuria telegraphs to the Wai-Wu-

Pu that his official reports show between 10,000 and 11,000 deaths, but he fears the total is much larger.

HEROIC PHYSICIANS DIE

A despatch from London says: In reply to a question in Parliament by Mr. Allen Baker, Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, on Wednesday afternoon stated that the British Minister at Pekin reports that all physicians here have been inoculated with Haffkin's vaccine and that the Chinese Government has done its utmost for the personal comfort of the physicians.

The French physician, Dr. Mesny, who died, was not inoculated. He was infected owing to a patient coughing in his unmasked face. Dr. Jackson, a British physician, died of exhaustion after continuous hard work among the infected coolies. The Minister concluded by declaring that Sir John Jordan reports that the heroism of the physicians is beyond praise.

A FLYING ORACLE SPEAKS

AIR TRAFFIC IS AN ASSURED FACT, HE SAYS.

Grahame-White Tells of Flying School in England—British Industry Established.

So convinced is Graham-White that flying will play in the future a prominent part in commerce, that he is preparing to organize a flying school in England, also to construct aeroplanes on a scale much larger than has yet been attempted. In an article for the Times he claims that three defects in the machines themselves—inability to combat winds, constructional weaknesses and unreliability of engines—have hitherto stood in the way of the aeroplane's advancement. These are being overcome at a very remarkable rate, and, as Mr. White believes, a natural process of evolution will ultimately triumph.

FLYING TO BEAT MOTORING.

"In this sporting aspect, I foresee that flying will enjoy an even greater vogue than motoring. The reason is not for to seek. Motor car driving, even in its most favorable aspects, cannot be compared with flying. There is a sense of freedom—an exhilaration—in passing swiftly through the air that never comes to one when driving a car. I speak from experience again, having done more than a little motoring. Directly a more convenient, less bulky machine can be produced, what one might call the public demand for an aeroplane will be.

"The demand of the age is for high-speed travel. The possibilities of land locomotion, in this respect, are almost exhausted. So, too, are those of sea transit. And now, conveniently too hand when mankind wants it, is the air travel. I do not see one insurmountable difficulty in the way of completely revolutionizing, by means of the aeroplane, all existing methods of communication.

A despatch from London, says: It is officially announced that the Prime Ministers of the over-seas dominions and the Ministers accompanying them to the Imperial Conference will be the guests, first of the Government, and afterwards of the King. The Colonial Office has taken rooms at the Hotel Cecil. The British members of Parliament will entertain 58 of the colonial members, eighteen of them from Canada, for a fortnight. They will have seats for the Abbey ceremony.

IMMUNE FROM INTOXICATION

His Will Bequeaths Brain and Stomach to Science.

A despatch from Philadelphia says: Jules Rosendale, of this city, a translator, died on Wednesday, aged 76 years. Mr. Rosendale in his will directed that his body be cremated and that his brain and stomach be given to the University of Pennsylvania to discover the reason for his immunity from the usual effects of intoxicating drink. It is stated by physicians that Mr. Rosendale could consume almost unlimited quantities of alcoholic liquor without any effect whatever upon his brain or nervous system.

TO FLY TO AMERICA.

Airship Named by Princess Henry of Prussia at Kiel.

A despatch from Kiel, Germany, says: Joseph Brucker's airship, in which he will try to fly across the Atlantic in May from the Cape Verde Islands to a still undetermined point in America, was named Suchard, after the chocolate maker, by Princess Henry of Prussia here on Wednesday. Prince Henry and a large official gathering attended the ceremony. The Suchard will undertake trial trips at Kiel and over the Baltic toward Tenerife early in April.

SMALLPOX IN CONVENT.

Disease Has Broken Out in Institution at Lachine.

A despatch from Montreal says: Smallpox has broken out in the convent of St. Ann at Lachine, a suburb of Montreal. There are 275 pupils in the place, mostly from the United States and Western Canada. Dr. Vallois, Medical Health Officer of Lachine, states that there is only one case at present and three of chickenpox. A strict quarantine has been placed on the convent.

TO CURE INSANE.

Important Discovery Announced by Glasgow Expert.

A despatch from London says: The newspapers ascribe to Dr. Oswald, of the staff of the Glasgow Waisan Asylum, the announcement of an important discovery which promises a certain cure for mental disease. The substance was discovered by a German professor and perfected by research experiments in Germany and Glasgow. When injected into the blood of insane persons it renders them immune from further attack.

tion of doing so in every instance where such a thing is possible.

DYNAMITE EXPLODED.

300 Pounds Blew Up at the Beaver Mine.

A despatch from Cobalt says: George Ranik, an Austrian, 24 years of age, was killed when 300 pounds of dynamite exploded at the Beaver Mine at 3.30 on Thursday morning. The thawing-out house, where the explosion occurred, was demolished, not a vestige remaining on the spot, and windows in nearby buildings were smashed in. A blacksmith, at work in his shop, was struck on the back of the head and knocked unconscious.

BURNED THE CIRCUS.

Monkey Overturned Oil Heater and Only Horse Was Saved.

A despatch from Pottsville, Pa., says: A monkey overturning an oil heater in the Winter quarters of a small railroad circus at Orwigsburg, Pa., on Wednesday night, caused the destruction of all the circus paraphernalia, including a cage of monkeys, trained apes, a pack of trained dogs, a den of snakes and several horses. One horse was the only thing taken out alive.

TO SELL THE CREAM.

New Departure May Injure Cheese Factories in the East.

A despatch from Picton, Ont., says: Prince Edward farmers have before them the proposition to sell cream to a Toronto firm, which offers a tempting price. It is understood some of the farmers in the upper part of the county may take up the idea this season. If any great quantity of cream should be shipped the cheese industry would be considerably hurt.

$10,000,000 TO CHARITY.

Will of the Late Baron Rothschild, of Vienna, Probated.

A despatch from Vienna says: The will of Baron Albert Rothschild, filed for probate on Friday, bequeaths $10,000,000 to charity. The Baron's third son Louis is appointed head of the Vienna banking house of the Rothschilds.

THE PLAGUE IN BRITAIN.

Cases are Reported from Glasgow and East Anglia.

A despatch from London says: The Morning Post says there are isolated cases of the bubonic plague at Glasgow and East Anglia. In China the plague has killed 75,000 people.

CANADA AND JAPAN.

Japan Has Denounced Convention of 1906.

A despatch from London says: Japan has denounced the Anglo-Japanese convention of 1906, regulating the commercial relations between Canada and Japan. The convention will thus expire in July.

combat winds, constructional weaknesses and unreliability of engines—have hitherto stood in the way of the aeroplane's advancement. These are being overcome at a very remarkable rate, and, as Mr. White believes, a natural process of evolution will ultimately triumph.

HOW PERIL IS OVERCOME.

Peril arises from sudden gusts. High speed combats this menace. With the greater weight and rigidity of construction which is bound to come, will dawn the era of air-travel at speeds of 100 miles an hour. Mr. White aims at the construction of such a machine as suggested. Engine problems are solving themselves. Skeptics who at first contended that no petrol motor would stand the strain of propelling an aeroplane because of its essential lightness and the high rate of speed demanded, have been silenced. Flights of three, five or six hours have been already achieved. The duration of flight has become now a mere matter of petrol carrying.

VERY LITTLE DANGER NOW.

Mr. White maintains, as a practical flyer, that in aerial journeys now there is very little danger. There are some 3,000 airmen in the world to-day. To teach these men to navigate a new element, with crude experimental machines and absolutely no data to go upon, cost less than 30 lives—a surprisingly low death roll! With a good machine, a careful, well-trained pilot, and proper weather conditions, flying is already as safe as motoring.

NEW "AIR-CAR."

The future of flying is assured. Ready for trials in the spring will be the first of a type of machine one might call the "air-car", a strongly-built monoplane. Its popularity is likely to spread rapidly next summer. A 100 horse-power engine will propel it. It will have a body like that of a padded seats, protected from the wind. Says Grahame-White: "I see no reason why any wealthy motorist should not purchase such a machine as this, have a 'aerial chauffeur' instructed to pilot it, if he does not want to learn to drive himself, and enjoy aeroplaning in a thoroughly practical way.

marking wants it, is the air travel. I do not see one insurmountable difficulty in the way of completely revolutionizing, by means of the aeroplane, all existing methods of communication.

THIEVES ARE UNKNOWN.

Places in England Where Ownership is Absolutely Respected.

There are still two places in England which may almost make the boast of that early England, when, as history assures us, a bag of gold might safely be left on the King's highway and none would touch it till its owner returned. One writes "almost," for the test to-day does not run quite to the severity of bags of gold.

In a large colliery district close to Manchester a great number of miners travel by train to and from their work. On arriving at the station the smokers, and that means practically every one, stick their pipes into various corners and holes of the platform woodwork. There they remain till going back time, when each man always finds his pipe just as he left it.

In Wiltshire miles of cart track traverse the open downs. To right and left are tiny hamlets, miles away and out of sight. The carrier, who passes twice or thrice a week, picks up and sets down parcels by the wayside. No one is left to take care of them. Parcels and baskets remain till their owners come for them, and nothing is ever interfered with.

QUEBEC BRIDGE CONTRACT

Has Been Secured By a Canadian Firm, and Will Amount to About $13,000,000

A despatch from Montreal says: It is stated that the experts employed by the Government to make recommendations concerning the new Quebec bridge to replace the one wrecked some years ago have reported four to one in favor of the tender presented by the St. Lawrence Bridge Company, which is composed of the Dominion Bridge Company and the Canadian Bridge Company. The contract, which doubtless will be awarded by the Government as recommended, amounts to about $13,000,000, or $40,000 above the tender sent in by the British Empire Bridge Company, which adhered to the official design. However, when the St. Lawrence Company prepared its tender, Phelps Johnston, the managing director of the Dominion Bridge Company, assisted by Mr. Douggan, of the same company prepared a design of his own, and it is understood that the experts considered this design superior to the official one. The successful company as a result of the award, will spend at least $2,000,000 in new machinery, as new shops will have to be built. The bridge will probably take six years to complete.

"Mrs. Pat's" Daughter.

Miss Stella Patrick Campbell has delighted her numerous friends by making a hit in H. B. Irving's new production at the Queen's Theatre, London.

Miss Campbell is the physical counterpart of her famous mother. She has the same mysterious dark eyes, the same transparent color, and the same masses of blue-black hair.

She graduated in 1904 from an academy at Dresden, and in the same year she was presented at court. At that time Mrs. Campbell was determined that she should not adopt a theatrical career. Miss Stella, however, was equally determined that she would do so, and she got her way during her mother's American tour, when she made promising appearances, as Ellen, in The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and as Marie in Magoda. Miss Campbell is barely twenty-one.

Her mother, by the way, was never stage-struck as her daughter has been. "Nothing but stern necessity drove me to the stage," says Mrs. Campbell. "I had to decide between becoming a governess and educating the children of others or going on the stage, where I could be near my own. I walked into a dramatic agent's office, handed in my name, and paid a guinea just like any other woman."

FARMERS AND RECIPROCITY

The Canadian Century of Montreal believing that Reciprocity with the United States would imperil the future of Canada, and that it would be specially disadvantageous to Canadian farmers, wishes to place its views of the question before the whole farming community and has arranged for a series of articles in newspapers of both political parties.

The first article follows and others will be published from week to week.

The Door Wide Open.

(From The Canadian Century, Feb. 18th.)

If the reciprocity compact merely opened the door of the Canadian food markets to American farmers it would be very injurious to thousands of Canadian farmers. It costs no more to transport American farm products to Canadian towns and cities than it does to transport Canadian farm products to cities of the United States, and the American farmers have the advantage of an earlier season. Moreover there are at least ten times as many farmers in the United States as there are in Canada, and so ten American farmers will get entrance to the markets of Canada for one Canadian farmer who gets entrance into the markets of the United States. That the American farmers will take advantage of the open door there can be no doubt. Even with a tariff wall against them they have succeeded in selling immense quantities of farm products in Canada, more than Canadian farmers have been able to sell in the United States. With reciprocity in farm products the ten American farmers will crowd the one Canadian farmer pretty close in his own market.

But this is not all the Canadian farmer has to face under the reciprocity compact. Owing to favoured nation treaties, any tariff advantages granted by Canada to the United States must also apply to the following countries: Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Bolivia, Russia, Denmark, Japan, Norway, Rumania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Venezuela.

Then it is provided "that the advantages granted to the United States shall extend to the United Kingdom and the several British colonies." This will bring about free entrance of farm products from those great food exporting colonies, Australia and New Zealand.

In fact Canadian farmers will have to compete in their own home market with farm products from all the great food producing countries of the world.

Adding To The Uncertainty.

There is always some uncertainty about farming. The farmer never knows when he puts seed in the ground what the weather conditions will be. There may be frost or hail or drought or too much rain.

Added to all these uncertainties due to Nature's variations there is the uncertainty regarding the prices which will prevail when the crop is harvested. How many acres should be devoted to one crop and how many to another depends upon a guess as to what demand there will be for the different agricultural products at the time of harvesting and what prices will prevail. What is true of farm crops is also true of live stock. It is comparatively easy for the farmer to study the conditions of the home market, but when he has to compete with the farmers of the world at large it is much more difficult to determine what the future will be.

It is now proposed to add to the uncertainty of Canadian farming. Imported farm products from the United States, the Argentine Republic, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Australia, New Zealand and a number of other countries coming into Canada without payment of any duties will to a considerable extent displace Canadian farm products in the home market as a result of the reciprocity compact.

To make up for losses in the home market the Canadian farmer will have to very greatly increase his exports to the United States. In sowing seed, in raising stock, in growing vegetables and fruit he will always have to consider what is most likely to satisfy American demands. And after he has made his arrangements, while his crops are still unharvested and the live stock, which he is raising specially to suit the American market, is half grown, the United States Congress may suddenly decide to shut out Canadian farm products of all kinds. Remember the Reciprocity Compact is not a treaty. It may be ended at will by the United States Congress or the Canadian Parliament. It is well that we are not tied down to any permanent arrangement. Even the Free Trade Farmers' Convention in Ottawa on Dec. 15 and 16, 1910, recommended that a permanent treaty should not be made, but that any understanding arrived at should be put into effect by concurrent legislation. All classes of the community were of the same opinion in this regard, and the Government could not have defied the unanimous sentiment of the community. So when we point out that either the United States Congress or the Canadian Parliament is at liberty to end the agreement at short notice we are not blaming the Government for this. We believe that Canadians in general, including both farmers and city people, will find the arrangement so unsatisfactory that they will be thankful Parliament has the power to terminate it, but if this forecast should prove wrong there will always overhang the cloud of uncertainty regarding the attitude of the United States Congress.

There will always be strong influences at work in the United States which may cause Congress to alter the tariff. American farmers may be dissatisfied or American manufacturers may think they are not getting enough out of agreement and demand better terms. Mr. Taft has made no secret of his expectation that the United States is to get greater concessions later on. If the United States Congress endorses the compact it will be because of this expectation. Under such conditions with what feelings of uncertainty will the Canadian farmer plan his work for a year ahead.

World's Largest Clock.

Liverpool will soon be able to boast of possessing the largest clock in the world, which is to be installed in the new offices of the Royal Liver Society's buildings in that city. Here are a few figures regarding this clock, which will occupy a position 220 feet from the ground.

Each of its four dials measures 25 feet in diameter, the minute hands being 14 feet long and 3 feet at their greatest width. The total weight of the framework for each dial is no less than 31.2 tons, and 5cwt. of opal glass has been used for each dial. The minute spaces are 14 inches apart, and the hour marks, which take the place of the usual numerals, are 3 feet 6 inches in length. Perhaps a better idea of the size of each dial may be gathered when it is mentioned that fifty people recently sat down to luncheon round the face.

Owing to the clock's exposed position, it has been necessary, in order

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $100 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry including the time required to earn homestead patent and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $300 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Labour Adviser.

It is doubtful if a better man could have been selected for the post of Labour Adviser to the Home Office than Mr. D. J. Shackleton, M.P. for Clitheroe. He has fought his way from poverty to his present influential position. At nine years of age he started work as a half-timer in a cotton mill, and, getting his education at the local school as best he could out of working hours, he was a teacher by the time he was twelve with pupils almost old enough to be his father. Known in the House as "Baby" Shackleton, he is one of the biggest and bravest of M.P.'s, standing well over 6 feet, and weighing 16 st. He has a soft corner in his heart for "strugglers," particularly the struggling widow with three or four children to bring up. As he told Mr. Lloyd-George on one occasion, "It is an easy matter to make out a budget when you have got the money to budget with, but it would be a difficult matter for the Chancellor to budget on 15s. or £1 a week."

Disenchanted.

"Until I met you, Matilda," he murmured in a voice husky with emotion, "I believed that all women were deceitful, but when I look into your clear, beautiful eyes I behold there the very soul of candor and loyalty." "George," she exclaimed with enthusiasm, "this is the happiest moment I have known since papa took me to the London oculist!" "London oculist!" "Yes, dear; you never would have known that my left eye is a glass one."

Then the moon went under a cloud, and George sat down and buried his face in the sofa cushion.—London Answers.

Real Havana.

London boasts that it sells the best cigars. If you go to Berlin the tobaccoists there will tell you that the finest Havanas come to Berlin. It is the same in St. Petersburg, Vienna and Paris. The cigar dealer of Amsterdam will hand you out six for one penny and say, "It is the finest tobacco in the world." It all depends where you live.

His Father Didn't Know.

A little lad was found on the street crying very bitterly because his cart was broken.

The kindly disposed stranger endeavored to cheer up the little fellow by saying, "Never mind, my boy; your father can easily mend that."

"No, he can't," sobbed the boy. "My father is a preacher, and don't know about anything."

Insulting.

"Is it true," said one lady to another, "that at your dance last night you were the only sober person present?"

"No; of course not," was the indignant reply.

"Who was, then?" said the first lady blandly.

Owing to the clock's exposed position, it has been necessary, in order to safeguard against the worst conceivable weather, to construct each dial face to withstand a wind pressure of over 11 tons.

An Opportunist.

Some facility in trimming sails to the passing breeze was very useful to the newspapers of a hundred years ago. This is how one of the Paris papers announced the arrival and advance of Napoleon after his escape from Elba: "The Corsican brigand has landed at Cannes;" the next day, "The rash usurper has been received at Grenoble." Then the tone changed: "General Bonaparte has entered Lyons;" a few days after, "Napoleon is at Fontainebleau," and finally, "His majesty the emperor alighted this evening at his palace of the Tuileries." Mr. C. F. Warwick recalls the incident in "Napoleon and the End of the French Revolution."

A Gladstone Recipe.

At a country house one morning the guests were discussing at breakfast the right way of packing a sponge bag when the sponge has been used and is consequently waterlogged.

Mr. Gladstone, who had apparently been so fully absorbed by his morning's correspondence, suddenly closed the discussion by informing the party that they were all wrong.

"The only proper method is to wrap it up in your bath towel and stamp upon it. Then put it in your sponge bag. You will find it perfectly dry."

Children's Scalp Sores are Healed by Zam-Buk.

Mothers are well aware how frequently children contract scalp sores, ringworm, etc., at school. Some little sufferer is sent to school with a sore of this nature. At play, the children change caps, and right here the infection is spread—the damage done.

Some children are particularly liable to scalp sores, etc., and often these break out with annoying frequency. Such a case was that of the daughter of Mrs. Albert Gaedike, of 485 Amsterdam St., Montreal. Mrs. Gaedike says: "My little three year old daughter suffered frequently from scalp disease, and try as we would, we could not rid the little one of this. We tried everything we could think of, but failed to effect a cure, until we were advised to try Zam-Buk. This balm seemed entirely different to anything we had ever tried before, and from first applying it there was a marked improvement. The sores became less inflamed and less irritable. After a few days they ceased to trouble the child, and in less than a fortnight from first commencing with Zam-Buk, they were completely healed. In view of these facts I feel it my duty to let mothers know how beneficial Zam-Buk is."

There is no doubt that for scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, frost bite and similar sores, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It is just as good for piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns and scalds. Rubbed well in over the affected part, it cures rheumatism, sciatica, etc., and, rubbed into the chest it relieves the tightness and feeling of weight due to contracting a bad cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse imitations.

MEDICAL RESEARCH.

Advancement of the Discovery of the Cause of Malaria.

In the history of research are many romances. Of the discovery that malaria was caused by mosquitoes, it is related how Dr. Low and Dr. Sambon lived in the malarious Roman Campagna without quinine. They retired at sunset to a mosquito proof hut, with double doors and windows of wire net, and they did not leave until sunrise. The fact that they remained immune, while the attendants, sleeping outside, contracted malaria, confirmed the belief that the mosquitoes were responsible.

But how did they carry the disease? At first it was thought to be by water. To settle the question live mosquitoes which had bitten infected peasants were sent home and two members of the school submitted to be bitten by them. They both went down with malaria. Again, how did the mosquitoes transmit the germ?

By cutting sections of the proboscis the malarious parasite was found. It breaks through the skin of the proboscis and is transmitted at the time of the sting. From the first conjecture to the final proof was a series of careful experiments, ending with the slicing of the mosquito's proboscis. Now, this is finer than fine hair. It is necessary to stop to think. For it is easier to imagine the triumph of the proof than the delicate operation that produced it.—London Standard.

Visitors to the mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople notice immediately they enter a beautiful fragrance pervading the entire building. Those who laid these stones have been long forgotten, but the influence and fragrance of the work remains.

A MINISTER'S DAY.

Not All Plums In the British Cabinet

—Bills and Other Little Worries.

"Five thousand a year, and a soft job!" Yes, that's what they say; and plenty believe it.

All I can say is I wish to goodness that one of these wisecracks could stand in my shoes for, say, a week, while Parliament is sitting. I'll warrant he would change his opinion before long.

You would like to know how I spend my day? Very well. In the first place, in summer, I am generally up at 7.30. My morning ride is absolutely necessary to keep me in condition.

I get back to my house about twenty to nine, change, and am ready for nine o'clock breakfast and the morning paper. I have to digest my eggs and bacon and The Times, and attend to my private letters within an hour, for at ten my motor comes to take me to my office at the Board of—

Piles of official letters await me. For these I can spare little more than an hour for there are sure to be various departmental officials waiting to see me. And also various deputations.

There are also the answers prepared for me to my Parliamentary questions of the day to be read and revised before I can think of luncheon.

I am lucky if I can get away by half-past one for a mouthful of food before going to the House.

While an ordinary member of Parliament is under no obligation to attend except upon certain special occasions, the unfortunate Cabinet Minister can hardly ever be absent. He simply lives on the Treasury Bench.

Questions come early in the afternoon. Sometimes they lead to a little pleasant excitement; but, as a rule, they are dull enough.

Private bills connected with my department add to the burden of dull routine, and I am lucky if I have time for a cup of tea at 4.30.

Sometimes I get home to a 7.30 dinner; more often I have to dine at the House. And on nights when the House is sitting—there are four of them weekly—I am bound to the treadmill till midnight.

Week-ends, which mean a two-and-a-half-days' holiday for the ordinary M.P., are shortened for me by official business, while even the recess has its own labors.

Fun? Very little. Yet I must confess that the letters I get are sometimes amusing. Amateur financiers send in scores of schemes for paying off the National Debt to my hon. brother at the Exchequer, and I, too, get amusing epistles.

Strange people are constantly way-laying Cabinet Ministers. They are usually inventors. One of these once managed to buttonhole the Secretary of State for War. He had invented a new explosive of terrific power, and his idea was to send up a balloon; carrying a charge with fuse ready set, over the hostile army.

"But suppose," objected the Secretary, "that the wind changed, and blew the balloon back over our army?"

The inventor's wild eyes gleamed. "Then I'll tell you what, sir. Our army would have to get up and run like the very dickens!"—Answers.

"On the great private estates in Mexico baths are in use to-day which were hewn out of the solid rock centuries ago by slave labor. They are located, for the most part, in the vicinity of running water, and are fed by bamboo pipes, but in many cases they have to be filled by the old-fashioned method of carrying a bucket to

TITLES IN DENMARK.

There Are Nine Classes of Rank, With Innumerable Subdivisions.

The Danish classification of rank is a very elaborate one, built up of offices, orders, birth and titles, writes J. Brochner in "Danish Life In Town and Country." There are nine classes, which are divided into as many as a dozen subsections, each of which may again comprise a score or two of different titles and offices, yet there was a complaint in one of the Danish papers that it was anything but complete.

Holders of titles have to pay an annual tax ranging from $44.50 in the first class to a miserly $3.33 in the ninth. There are about a score of different titles, several of which are again divided into "real" and "others," the "real" being several shades better than the "others."

These titles are always used in conversation, as, for example, "Will not the chamberlain have a cigar?" or "Mr. Chamberlain, will you not have a cigar?" And it requires a fairly clear head and a good memory to give everybody his due in a large party, especially as some of them are decorously long, as, for instance, geheimeconferentsraad.

Then there are ladies, who generally have "inde" (the English "ess") added to their husbands' title or office. A colonel's wife, for instance, is called oberstinde, and the wife of the chamberlain to the king kammer-

LIGHTING BY GAS.

It Was a Costly Process When It Was First Established.

The first incorporated gas company was the National Light and Heat Company of England, established in 1809. In America the first gas company was incorporated in Baltimore in 1810, the second one in Boston in 1822, and the next one was the New York Gaslight company, incorporated in 1823.

Prior to 1820 the gas business of this country was nominal, but the price probably was responsible for its slow development. From 1821 to 1828, says Moody's Magazine, the New York Gaslight company sold gas to consumers at the rate of $10 a thousand cubic feet.

The first artificial illuminating gas was produced in England about 1728 by one Dr. Hales, but not until 1780 was a practical test made. In that year the Earl of Dundonald of Scotland arranged an apparatus by which he lighted his castle with gas. The same year William Murdoch of Birmingham, England, introduced gas as a light in his workshops at Redruth and Cornwall.

As Mr. Murdoch was the first man to reap any commercial benefit from the discovery of the use of illuminating gas, he may properly be accredited as the father of modern public utilities. In 1813 London bridge was illuminated by gas, and five years later gas was in general use throughout the main part of London.

Red Letter Days.

The origin of a "red letter day" has been traced back to the third century. Gregory, bishop of Caesarea, zealous for the conversion of pagans, found them unwilling to give up their customary recreations at the festivals of their gods, so, taking a leaf out of their book, he instituted festivals in honor of saints and martyrs. This example soon led to the institution of holy days, now corrupted into holidays. In old almanacs all such holy days were set forth in red ink, the rest being in black; hence the term "red letter day" for any notable occasion. Others say that the origin of the expression is much more recent and is due to the fact that Saints' day, the 5th of November, the king's birthday and accession and King Charles' day were similarly marked off in red as holidays for the Bank of England, evidently in the times of the later Stuarts.—London Telegraph.

Political Antinomies.

Political antinomies today are seldom carried into private life. In the past just the opposite was the rule. "Coke of Norfolk" once stated that when he was a child his grandfather took him on his knee and said, "Now, remember, Tom, as long as you live never trust a Tory," and he used to add, "I never have, and, by George, I never will." G. W. E. Russell, too, tells of an eccentric maiden lady whom he knew in his youth who, having spent her life in the innermost circles of aristocratic Whiggery, always refused to enter a cab until she had extorted from the driver an assurance that he had never carried cases of infectious disease, that he was not a Fusayite and that he was a Whig.—London Graphic.

stones were laid in a series of careful experiments, ending with the slicing of the mosquito's proboscis. Now, this is finer than fine hair. It is necessary to stop to think. For it is easier to imagine the triumph of the proof than the delicate operation that produced it.—London Standard.

Information Given.

A very pretty girl was standing in the hallway of her home several evenings ago, and the young man who had been calling on her was taking an affectionate farewell.

Just as he kissed her for the last time the irate father stormed down the hall and demanded to know what the young man "was trying to do."

The young man said he was "trying to look unconcerned" and then bolted.

The Treadmill.

The treadmill was invented thousands of years ago by the Chinese to raise water for the irrigation of the fields. The invention, somewhat changed, was introduced into England and other European countries and used in prisons as a mode of punishment. One was erected at Brixton jail in 1817 and soon afterward in other prisons. Toward the end of the century, however, it fell into disuse.

An Exception.

"Oh, yes, Tommy," said the teacher, "if you have a dog you are the owner of a quadruped."

"No, I ain't," insisted Tommy. "Don't contradict me! I explained to you yesterday that any animal with four legs was a—"

"Yes'm, but Rover lost one o' his'n fightin' a trolley car."

Irish Lace for Queen Mary's Robes.

A great stimulus ought to be given to the manufacture of Irish lace by the announcement that Queen Mary has commanded that all the lace used on her coronation robes shall be of Irish manufacture, and the veil her majesty will wear will be of Irish needlepoint.

On the great private estates in Mexico baths are in use to-day which were hewn out of the solid rock centuries ago by slave labor. They are located, for the most part, in the vicinity of running water, and are fed by bamboo pipes, but in many cases they have to be filled by the old-fashioned method of carrying a bucket to and from the spring.

In the cities the so-called stone baths are made of cement. The residences of all well-to-do people are provided with them, and they are a feature of the native hotels. They are usually about ten feet long by four deep, baby swimming tanks, in fact.

The tropical custom is to fill the baths late at night. By the following morning the water will have acquired a limpid coolness that acts like a tonic upon the body. When one remembers that near the equator it is almost as warm in the morning as it is at noon, and that water taken direct from the city mains is always tepid, the advantage of the stone or cement bath is evident.

The Taste For Horse.

Is our dislike of horseflesh simply prejudice? If we may judge from the experience of the inmates of the legations, which Miss Hooker recounts in "Behind the Scenes in Peking," the Anglo-Saxon can easily acquire the taste. "It is queer," she says, "to see how many people acknowledge that they like it, having eaten it now for two weeks. Of course, a great deal depends upon the animal, but they agree that mule and pony are better than horse. Some people, even, who have among their stores plenty of canned or tinned beef prefer the fresh horse meat."

decorously long, as, for instance, geheimeconferentsraad. Then there are ladies, who generally have "inde" (the English "ess") added to their husbands' title or office. A colonel's wife, for instance, is called oberstinde, and the wife of the chamberlain to the king kammerherreinde, and so forth. But the subtleties of the additional titular address in writing even excel the verbal form. That persons of the first rank are "excellencies" is only natural, but gentlemen of the second class have on documents addressed to them a "high well born" prefixed to their title and name, and those of the third class a "high and well born." I much regret that I cannot explain why the addition of this "and" should somewhat detract from the value of the same words. Gentlemen of the ninth class are addressed as "well honorable and well bred," which is, I think, almost more than they could expect for their $333.

FREE PSYCHINE FOR THE SICK

Let us buy a 50c. bottle from your Druggist and give it to you to try. Here are our reasons:

For nearly the third of a century we have known what Psychine will do. We have known it to cure hundreds of thousands in that time, of some of the most desperate cases of disease known to medical science.

We have received thousands of unsolicited testimonials, which we will gladly let you look over should you desire.

Think of it, a third of a century's experience with one preparation, a third of a century's intimate knowledge of what extraordinary cures it has made—almost a lifetime!

Do you wonder then with that perfect knowledge of Psychine, that we are anxious to bring it to the notice of everyone in Canada suffering from disease?

Do you wonder that we want those to know who are using wrong methods of cure, who are not getting well, and who we know will be benefited by Psychine.

Do you wonder that we can buy hundreds of thousands of 50-cent bottles of Psychine from the druggists of Canada to give to those who wish to try it?

Psychine builds vitality. It strengthens and increases the white corpuscles of the blood—the phagocytes, the policemen or scavengers of the blood.

These white corpuscles of the blood, when strong enough, destroy every disease germ that gets into the body, keeps the body healthy.

If these white corpuscles are not in sufficient numbers or are not sufficiently strong, then these disease germs destroy them and disease holds the body. That's the cause of nearly every disease that afflicts the human race. For years, centuries, in fact, it has been recognized that herbs are the most effective treatment for disease.

It is only within recent times that we have been able to tell just why they were so effective.

Because certain of them increased and strengthened the white corpuscles or phagocytes.

These herbs are employed in compounding Psychine.

We go all over this world to obtain these herbs. Arabia, South America, China and Japan all contribute.

And the result is a preparation that will restore health and build vitality as no other preparation will.

That has proven itself in nearly the third of a century's use as no other preparation has proven itself.

That is a most effective treatment for:

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

Smartness is not always smart; indeed, smartness is not smart half the time. An act which half the people will say is smart will disgust the other half. But politeness is always politeness. Even honesty is not always accepted as honesty, and fairness is not always accepted as fairness, but politeness always makes a favorable impression.

Good Place For It.

Willie—Here's a sign I got from the postoffice.

Mrs. Slimson—Why, Willie, what do you mean? It's the sign "For Transients." You just take it right back. "I thought you might like to hang it up in your kitchen."

HOW TO HAVE WINTER EGGS.

Make Hens Comfortable and Keep Chicken House Clean.

One great essential in getting winter eggs is to make the hens entirely comfortable. The first thing to do is to get busy now and clean out the house thoroughly. Remove every useless article and leave the floors entirely free from anything that will obstruct their free use as a scratching place. Clean down the walls, spray thoroughly, remove every bit of litter from the floor, and if it is a dirt floor take out at least a couple of inches of the old dirt, which should be replaced with clean loam.

Make ready a corner in each pen that can be used as a dusting box. This can be kept supplied with the fine siftings from hard coal ashes and will be much enjoyed by the whole flock. If it can be placed where the sun will shine on it so much the better. Do not close the windows until the weather gets real cold. Let there be one glass window for each pen of 10 by 12 or 16 feet and one muslin covered frame, with at least twelve square feet of surface for each pen.

This may look like a cold proposition, but it will be found the muslin does not make the pen any colder than does the same amount of glass surface and at the same time gives a steady supply of fresh air. This muslin will help greatly in keeping the poultry house dry during the winter and will make it much more comfortable than a closely shut up house can ever be.

For colder nights have a curtain of cheap sheeting running across the front of the roosting place. This does not need to fit tightly except at the top and may hang out some inches from the dropping boards, giving plenty of room for the fowls to pass to and from the roosts. On the very coldest of nights the roosting place will be found to be entirely comfortable, and in the morning the hens will come out ready to scratch and hustle for their breakfast.

Above all things, be sure to keep a good six inches of perfectly dry straw on the floor for scratching material. There can be little comfort for the hen in scratching a pile of dirty, damp litter that has been on the floor for a month or more.

Not a Contortionist.

A merchant died, leaving to his only son the conduct of his extensive business, and great doubt was expressed in some quarters whether the young man possessed the ability to carry out the father's policies.

"Well," said one kindly disposed friend, "for my part I think Henry is very bright and capable. I'm sure he will succeed."

"Perhaps you're right," said another friend. "Henry is undoubtedly a clever fellow; but, take it from me, old man, he hasn't got the head to fill his father's shoes."

Maintaining the Proportion.

Mrs. Nagston—Why, my dear, the last time I heard you tell that betting story it was only $12 instead of $25 that you lost.

Mr. Nagston—Well, this crowd I'm telling it to is twice as big as that one was.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

They May Not Be Quite So Numerous as You Imagine.

GUESS AS TO THEIR NUMBER.

Then Do Some Thinking and Figuring and See How Far From Your Guess You Come and Incidentally Learn How Many Folks You Don't Know.

Did you ever have the experience of walking down Main street with a man who is running for office? All the time he is bowing right and left to people you meet. Several times in a block he will stop to shake hands with an acquaintance.

"You seem to know every one," you say to him almost enviously.

"That's right," he replies, not without some pride. "I guess I do know everybody worth knowing."

Yet how many people does he know? How many people do you know yourself? Did you ever try to figure it out? What proportion of the people in the United States do you know? Certainly you don't know the one-hundredth part of them. Even the president of the United States doesn't and couldn't if he kept traveling all the time, making a host of new acquaintances every day.

To know the one-hundredth part of the people in this country would be to know in the neighborhood of a million persons. No; it is perfectly safe to say that there is no person in the whole world that knows a million other persons well enough to call each of them by name. Think what a million means! Suppose you said the names of all the people you know as fast as you could. If you could enunciate twenty names a minute you would be doing marvelously well. Even at that rate, working steadily eight hours a day, it would take you nearly four months just to name the people you know. There isn't a memory in existence that would hold a million names.

Well, do you suppose you know a and public lecturers may know a couple of thousand persons by name, but very few other persons know that many.

If this estimate seems too low it is easily disproved. All you have to do is to take pencil and paper and begin putting down the names of your acquaintances. Start with your own family and then put down your cousins and your second cousins and your wire's relations. Then put down the names of the people you know in the town you used to live in and the people you know socially. Follow that up with the people you know in business, then—

But you can't dispute these figures. It is too much trouble to think of all the people you know. You'll never do it.—New York World.

A Hat and a Head.

"Now, if you follow my advice," said one business man to another as the wind caught the hat of the latter from his head—"if you follow my advice your derby will stay on in any wind that New York can produce. When I buy a new hat I heat it over the gas jet, and while it is still warm I put it on and let it cool on my head. The result is a perfect fit. Try it and see."—New York Sun.

The only wealth which will not decay is knowledge.—Langford.

Victims of the Black Plague.

The bubonic plague, which is now active in several parts of the world, has been responsible for the loss of many millions of lives. In 1334 and 1335 China, India, Persia, Russia, Germany, Italy, France, England and Norway were devastated. A trail of 86,000 victims marked the passage of the plague from Syria to Marseilles in 1720. In the year 1770, 80,000 persons died in Moscow alone. Constantinople has provided such figures as 150,000 and 110,000 in enumerating victims during a single visitation of plague. Natives of India have died in appalling numbers.

steadily eight hours a day, it would take you nearly four months just to name the people you know. There isn't a memory in existence that would hold a million names.

Well, do you suppose you know a hundred thousand? Let's see; that would be about one-fifth of the population of Rhode Island. Imagine yourself sitting in the railroad station at Providence watching the people come through. No; that is hardly a fair test, for unless you live in Providence you do not know as many people there as in the city in which you live. Sit in your own railway station and count the people coming through. No matter how well known you are or how many people you know, you cannot help but be impressed with the fact of how many people there are that you do not know. If you know one in a hundred persons you know far more than the average.

Let us try to get at it in another way. You make on the average, say, two new acquaintances a week. Of course there are weeks and weeks that you make no new acquaintances at all, and then there are times, such as picnic week and vacation week and church fair week, when you meet a lot of people, so that two a week is a fair average. You have been meeting people, say, for twenty-five years. That's 2,500, isn't it?

Is it possible that you know only 2,500 people? You thought the number would be far more than that? But hold on. You don't know nearly that many. There are lots and lots of people whom you knew twenty years ago that you don't know now. You cannot even remember their names or what they looked like.

Just sit down and try to remember the names of all the boys and girls that were in the same room in the public school with you. You cannot remember half of them or a third of them or a fifth of them. It is safe to say that of every two persons you met in all your life you have forgotten one. The chances are that the number of people you know by name is nearer 1,000 than it is 2,000.

Of course a preacher with a thousand members in his church is expected to know them all by name. But all the same you will find him saying to his wife:

"My dear, who was that young lady who spoke to us just now?"

It is business, too, for a merchant to remember all of his thousand customers, but very few merchants are able to do it. Possibly some of the politicians and 110,000 in enumerating victims during a single visitation of plague. Natives of India have died in appalling numbers.

Eggs—the Difference.

The difference between a fresh and a stale egg can be detected the moment they are put in the water for boiling. The fresh egg immediately sinks to the bottom and lies flat on its side, where as the stale egg will be seen to rise on end. If it rises slightly it may only be a trifle bad, but according to the angle at which it inclines with the bottom of the saucepan its staleness can be told. If it rises to the top, then take it out to the dust bin, but be careful not to break it.—Tit-Bits.

Tree Cutting.

Very novel is the method of cutting down trees that has been devised by a Berlin inventor. It consists in the use of a fine steel wire, which is looped about the tree and sawed back and forth by an electric motor. The heat generated is sufficient to burn a thin kort through the wood. A tree 20 inches in diameter can be felled in six minutes. The charred butt of the tree may easily be marked with chalk and the charred layer is so thin that it does not hide any decay or other defects in the wood.

MEYERS' CAVE

vinced that he was in the right place and would have no trouble in finding the cave. He built himself a shanty to live in and commenced the search, but it proved to be a long and fruitless one. Some say he lived there for fourteen years, others say it was thirty-five years, at any rate he probably spent a life time in searching for it.

Hundreds of other men have at various times searched for the cave and thousands of dollars have been spent in looking for it but the real clue to the cave, the hatchet, which young Meyers left in the tree could never be found. Two Napanee men, Messrs. E. E. Scott and W. M. Sills, have been back in the vicinity of the lake a large number of times during the past twelve years and on every trip these gentlemen diligently searched the rocks for any sign which would lead them to the much sought for cave. Last September these gentlemen were having their annual hunt for the cave and found what is no doubt the long lost hatchet, which Meyers left near the cave so many years ago. A letter M is cut into one side of the hatchet, apparently with a sharp chisel and still shows plainly. Mr. Ashley, of Belleville, whose mother's name was Myers, when shown the hatchet, and saw the letter M on it said at once that he believed it was the identical hatchet which young Meyers left near the cave. Mr. Daily Lake, a man about 80 years old, who has lived at the foot of Missanaga Lake for nearly fifty years, and who knew the Meyers and Vantassel families, said as soon as he saw it and was told where it was found, that he was certain it had belonged to Myers and was the one he left near the cave. Messrs. Scott and Sills found this hatchet right back of the anvil rock on top of the mountain, and close beside the wall of rock mentioned by Myers. It had evidently been stuck in a pine tree and when the tree was burned down and nothing but the root of the tree blade down and nothing but a portion of the head remained exposed. Many men who have hunted for the cave consulted clairvoyants and mediums to see if they could say where it was and nearly all of them have said it was in that vicinity but could go no nearer. It might be interesting to know just how Messrs. Scott and Sills came to find the hatchet. Last August when the renowned "Ita" was in Napanee Mr. Scott attended one of the meetings in the opera house and the thought struck Mr. Scott to ask her whether he and Mr. Sills would find the cave during the trip they were then preparing to take to Missanaga Lake. The next day he went to the Royal Hotel and interviewed "Ita" and on telling her that with some other parties he had been searching for a mine, she answered, "Yes, you will find it in from one day to four weeks time, she could not just tell the day. On being asked if she was sure of it she answered "I know it. It is just three quarters of a mile straight north from where you worked," though Mr. Scott had not told her he had done any work there. About two weeks later Messrs. Sills and Scott started on their trip and the day following their arrival at the lake they got a boat and rowed up the lake. After stopping at the scene of their former search, and eating lunch they proceeded up the lake as near as they could judge three quarters of a mile, which took them right to anvil rock, which stands in the lake at the foot of the mountain, which here is about 200 feet high and too steep to be climbed. Selecting an object across the lake as a guide they went down the lake until they could climb the mountain and proceed along the top until they came opposite the tree they had marked as being opposite the anvil rock. Going a short distance further they found a gully down which they could climb and following it they came out about three rods from the water and found another wall of rock about twenty feet high. Following this wall they came to a corner and Mr. Sills was struck by the peculiar appearance of the place as all the stories in reference to the cave mentioned the coming to a corner which stopped further progress. While Mr. Sills was examining the place Mr. Scott happened to see what looked like a piece of iron and on picking it up found it to be an old style hatchet such as was used a hundred years ago, and on comparing the surroundings with the information they had at various times picked up, at once were sure they had found a place from

PLEASANT VALLEY.

The party at R. Ellerbeck's was a decided success. Fred Ellerbeck is confined to the house; we hope to see him around again soon. J. H. Watson has returned from the hospital much improved in health. Glad to see you, Harry! Thomas Yonge passed through here en route to Colebrook, and he says if the road from Purdy's Corner to Slack's School is a sample of the good roads system, he would like to catch the fellow who is to blame for it. One of our young men treated some lady friends to chopped potatoes in mistake for candy. He was the victim of a practical joke. Visitors: Elmer Hughes at A. Cowdy's; J. Watson at Holleford; Melville Ellerbeck called at D. Freeman's; Fred Babcock at E. Whitty's; Miss Laura Cowdy at D. J. Curran's. Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Sigsworth attended the funeral of the late W. Saul. Mr. and Mrs. R. Ellerbeck called on friends in Yarker. Amos Towneend made a business trip to Colebrook. Misses M. J. and Gladys Leslie Godfrey, visited friends here recently. Mrs. Jane Ellerbeck visited friends in Hartington. Samuel Barr, Burridge, called at G. Barr's. Mr. Joyce and bride, Haileybury, visited at Frank Ellerbeck's. A Barr and bride passed through here recently.

WAGARVILLE.

A number of young people from here, spent an enjoyable evening at William Cousin's, McLean last week. There was a missionary concert in the Methodist church, on Monday evening. Miss Cora Wagar has gone back to her school at Sharbot Lake. Miss A. Hearn, was home from Kingston, on Wednesday of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Cronk, Enterprise are visiting here. Mr. and Mrs. William McCumber have returned home, after visiting at Enterprise and other points. Mr. and Mrs. G. Raymond, were at John Vanvolkenburgh's, Maclean, on Sunday.

DENBIGH.

All the late smallpox patients in the vicinity have fully recovered and quarantine has been removed from their premises. There is however still considerable other sickness around. Among those now on the sick list are; Mrs. P. Stein, Edward Petzold Jr., Wm. McCoy, and a daughter of Thomas Dool.

Fred Flak received word that his daughter Elsa, who has for some time been sick with typhoid fever in one of Ottawa Hospitals, is very low, and has left for the Capital to see her. Robert Stein, who had his head and shoulders badly hurt by the top of a tree falling on him while working in the bush, has so far recovered that he has been able to resume work.

The Chatson House was discovered to be on fire about 8 o'clock p. m., on Saturday before last. There was however quite a number of able helpers promptly at hand who got it under control before it made much headway. The fire was probably caused by a flue in one of the chimneys and the loss was limited to some damage to several bedrooms, to part of the roof and one of the chimneys.

A meeting of the Municipal Council was held at the Chatson House on the 11th, inst. The usual number of Pathmasters, Fence-viewers and Poundkeepers were appointed and John Brown, Assessor for last year, was reappointed to assess the Municipality again this year.

Albert Lockwood is away for a week visiting friends and relatives in the front of the county.

Miss Marthe Berger is enjoying quite a visit with relatives in Renfrew County.

Andrew Kerr who has lately resided in the Township of Lyndoch has moved back again on his Denbigh property near this village.

Charles and Victor Wienecke have returned home from New Ontario where they have been engaged in lumbering.

FROM THE TROPICS TO HEAL US

In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article. This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna, sold the world over.

Could Not Understand.

The bedtime hour was at hand, but after the usual preparations for the night Violet hesitated over her prayers. After a moment's silence she said, "Mummy, dear, are our prayers answered?"

"Why, yes, dear," replied Mamma. "But what a question, dear!"

"I asked because, if they are, why do you smack me? Why don't you pray for me to be a good girl? It would be so much more comfy."

Father of Astronomy.

Hipparchus, the father of astronomy, established the fact of the procession of the equinoxes—that is, that the sun crosses the equator about one minute farther westward each year—150 years before Christ was born, and it is consequently believed that he knew the earth was spherical in form. He catalogued 1,000 stars and invented an instrument for calculating latitude and longitude.

Coral From Italy.

Much of the costly red, white and pink coral used for ornamental purposes is obtained from the coast of Italy. Men go out in boats and drag the rock bottom of streams with wooden frames or nets, in which the coral becomes entangled, but the delicate branches are crushed in this way. The finest coral is obtained by diving.

reference to the cave mentioned in the letter to the corner which stopped further progress. While Mr. Sills was examining the place Mr. Scott happened to see what looked like a piece of iron and on picking it up found it to be an old style hatchet such as was used a hundred years ago, and on comparing the surroundings with the information they had at various times picked up, at once were sure they had found a place from which the finding of the cave would be an easy job. As these gentlemen did not know to whom the property belonged they took care not to leave any traces which would show they had been searching nor would they make any further search until they were sure of their ground. Returning home they at once started to find the owners of the mineral rights and in about three weeks they found the parties but it took nearly three months negotiations to secure a lease of the property and on returning to the lake they found everything covered with snow and ice and were obliged to return until more favorable weather. On looking over the ground they found that in all probability the hollow in which the cave is supposed to be situated and where their discovery was made, has been gradually filled with earth and loose rock which has washed down from the mountain. This being the case Messrs. Scott and Sills are not financially strong enough to undertake a systematic excavation of the hollow, as living expenses and supplies are very high at the lake and considerable capital will be necessary to have a reasonable chance of success. They have therefore formed the Missanaga Mining and Development Co., Limited, capitalized at $100,000 in 100,000 shares at a par value of one dollar per share. The company have placed 40,000 shares in the treasury and these shares will be sold at 25 cents a share to furnish sufficient capital to make a thorough examination of the property. Anyone buying these shares who has ever met Messrs. Scott and Sills will be assured that any money they subscribe for this stock will be honestly handled and should the venture prove a success the financial returns will be ample. This is not a wild cat scheme in any sense as the promoters have here given the public all the information they have and all subscribers will know what is going to be done with their money. If you have just a little money, and a pretty fair amount of common-sense, added to enough diligence to look after things properly, The Peerless Way can make poultry profitable for you.

Co-Operation In Raising and Marketing

The Peerless Way is a great deal more than merely a system of poultry raising; it is also a practical method of co-operative marketing—a system that will make you independent of combines, and enable you to obtain top-notch prices for large or small quantities of eggs and poultry by showing you how to market to the very best advantage.

The Peerless Way Has Over 15,000 Successful Users

Over fifteen thousand poultrymen in Canada have made a success of poultry raising by The Peerless Way. They have made no heavy investments—they have started with no elaborate equipment—nor have they given up a big tract of land to their poultry yards. They have simply done what you, or any other capable person, can do—adopted our system, followed the plain, practical method it teaches, and used freely the advice of our experts. Most of them, without knowledge or experience, have stepped into the business that guarantees high dividends on a small investment. Some of them are devoting only part of their time to it, and a few of them are devoting all their time to it—though mighty few of them gave it all their time on the start. But every man who has consistently followed our plan has achieved success.

The Peerless Incubator (guaranteed for ten years) that has helped 15,000 Canadian Poultrymen to greater profits.

You Can Have Free Advice From Our Poultry Advisory Board

If you are a user of The Peerless Way, you are entitled to consult our poultry experts at any time without charge. The Peerless Way covers everything in poultry raising, that it is possible for any method to cover. But if at any time, a point comes up that is peculiar to you, all you have to do is to write us. Our experts will consider your case individually and write you personally. This service is free to every member of the Peerless Family.

We Will Show You How To Market Your Poultry and Eggs

The Co-Operative Marketing plan, that forms so important a part of The Peerless Way, has helped our 15,000 co-workers to make more money than any one of them could have made working individually. The poultry market is a real market—if you know how to take advantage of it. We are constantly over-run with orders for both eggs and poultry. As a matter of fact, poultrying as a business is a long way from being over-done in Canada—there is plenty of room to make good money out of it. Be sure to send for our book.

GOOD HEALTH FOR RUN DOWN MEN

If You Are Weak and Easily Tired
Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Anaemia is a state into which one falls because of lack of blood, or because the blood is poor, weak and watery. The man or woman who has not enough blood is pale, languid, easily tired and easily depressed. As the trouble progresses other symptoms show themselves, and the life of the sufferer is one of misery. Anaemia opens the door to consumption, and gives victims to all the epidemic maladies, because the whole body is weakened and unable to resist the inroads of disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best remedy in the world for the cure of anaemia, and all its attendant miseries. They make the blood rich, red and pure, thus bringing health and strength to weak, despondent men and women. We do not know of a single case of anaemia where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have failed to cure if given a fair trial. Mr. John Hastings, Venn, Sask., was a victim of this trouble and found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says: "I was working on a railway driving a team and found myself gradually running down. I did not pay much attention to it at first, but soon I began to lose my appetite and it was a trial to get through my day's work. I got medicine from the doctor on the works, but it did not help me, and finally I got so bad I told the foreman I would have to quit. He told me not to lose hope, that he would get some medicine that would soon make me all right. That night he went to town and bought me three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not taken more than two boxes when I began to feel better, and after I had used five boxes I was as well and strong as ever, and could do a day's work with any man on the job. I may just add that before I began taking the Pills I was so run down that I weighed only 122 pounds, and while taking them I gained 22 pounds. I cannot say too much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and strongly recommend them to all run down men."

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE; OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER VI.—(Cont'd)

A blush dyed her face, and a smile crept round the corners of her mouth.

"He is indeed my knight," she said, softly, to herself; "twice he has come to my rescue; how strong, how brave, how—how dear he is!"

She picked a rose that was nodding with several others on a branch close to her window, and carried it absently to her lips. She was thinking of her episode with William, and she shuddered slightly.

"How cruel, how horrible he looked; thank Heaven, Mr. Darnley was so near; what should I have done if he had not come? I am almost afraid to think. How right my instinct was! I always disliked that man, and I was right. It must have been intuition, I suppose, for how could I know that he was in league with Moss? Well," with a deep sigh of relief, "he is gone, and I may dismiss him from my mind; and as for this great Mr. Crawshaw why, by this time, no doubt, he has forgotten that such a person as Nancy Hamilton ever existed at all, and so he will not be likely to trouble me much."

And, having arrived at this satisfactory conclusion, Nancy began her toilet for dinner, singing softly to herself as she dressed.

The gong had not sounded as she glided down the stairs in her evening gown of white India muslin, the work of her own fingers, and she had time for a stroll in the grounds before dinner; so she stepped out onto the terrace, and was going slowly to the lawn, when she found her progress barred by a tall form.

"Oh, Mr. Darnley!" she said, coloring deeply, "how you startled me!"

"Did I?" Darnley returned, quietly. "If you had been less engrossed in your thoughts, Miss Hamilton, you might have seen me."

He turned and sauntered beside her.

"Quite recovered your fright?" he asked, trying hard not to stare too closely at her, and longing to wrap his arms about her and draw her to his heart.

"Quite," she smiled.

"Then I can prepare you for a great disappointment."

Nancy looked suddenly startled.

"Mr. Crawshaw has gone away, and you will not see him for a whole week," Darnley explained.

Nancy drew a deep breath.

"How you frightened me!" she cried, feeling that this piece of news came as an apt finish to her commonsense reasoning on her position. "I am so glad!"

Her undoubted pleasure sent a thrill through his veins.

"But I thought you adored money!" he said, fixing his gray eyes on her fair, sweet face.

Nancy shook her head.

going through the large, old-fashioned rooms, and beautifying them with all the rare and sweet blossoms she culled from the gardens. By nature industrious, Nancy would not be content with luxurious idleness. She felt she must have some occupation, and so she practically took all Dorothy's small duties on her shoulders, and delighted in them.

"Just half-past eight," she commenced to herself, glancing at a clock; "I shan't have Dorothy roused for another hour. She will be nearly worn out before the day is over! What a glorious day it will be! Fitting weather for her fete. She should have nothing but sunshine about her, darling Dorothy!"

Nancy made a very pretty picture as she stood, surrounded by scattered flowers, in her cotton frock of palest blue.

She had bunched her mass of hair in one huge lump on the top of her head, and a few soft tendrils crept over her brow and round her milk-white throat.

Day by day the girl seemed to expand and beautify. Every gentle and sweet trait was drawn out in her nature. Life was so happy, so wonderfully good, in her sight, that she welcomed each hour with open arms; and, basking in the sunshine of such care, gradually forgot the past.

The clock ticked on another five minutes, and Nancy did wonders in that short time. It was wonderfully quiet and peaceful in the long, quaint drawing-room; no sound came to disturb her, for although Sir Humphrey had given her his morning kiss nearly an hour ago, and was by now out in the park superintending the arrangements of the tents, etc., the other guests—the Misses Chester excepted—were not likely to leave their rooms till some time later.

A week had gone since Nancy's unfortunate walk to the village, and its unpleasant results—a week that seemed to have glided on golden wheels, so pleasant had it been to her. She did not stop to inquire as to why this one week had been so much happier to her than any she had yet passed in her new life, and in all probability she would have arrived at no satisfactory conclusion were she to have done so, beyond agreeing that, of course, with the arrival of guests at the Hall, there had been more gaiety and excitement, which might have brought about the condition of mind in which she found herself. A very agreeable party was gathered together at the Hall. Every one treated Nancy most kindly; the men, perhaps, a trifle more kindly than the ladies, but that was natural, for few women are without a slight sensation of jealousy, and there was something about Nancy's picturesque, poetical face, irregular as it was, that was far more dangerous

"My temper soon gets good when I am with you, Nancy."

"But you can't always be with me, Mr. Darnley."

"No, worse luck!"

He picked up a blade of grass and ate it slowly, while he tilted his hat over his eyes and stared at Nancy.

"I wonder," he said, meditatively, after a pause, "how you will like my mother."

"Oh! very much!" Nancy declared, at once.

"Hum—that is by no means certain. She is not popular, as a rule."

"Is she like you?" asked Nancy, demurely.

The young man's face twitched with a dawning smile.

"I am supposed to resemble her greatly," he replied—gravely, however.

Nancy just glanced at his face, with its eyes of deep, rare gray.

"Ah!" she remarked, with much deliberation.

Darnley laughed outright, and moved a step nearer to her.

"You insulting little witch," he said, tenderly, and he came a shade closer still to her.

Nancy felt her cheeks grow crimson, and her heart thrill suddenly.

"What a lovely day it is going to be!" she declared, hurriedly.

"Is it?" asked the man, dreamily, gazing at her fixedly.

"Don't—don't you think so? The sky is cloudless, and the breeze delicious."

Darnley put his hand on hers.

"Perhaps, Nancy," he said, slowly, yet with a world of passionate love in his voice—"Perhaps that is why I feel in paradise to-day. No, don't shrink away, my darling, let me know that you, too, are happy, Nancy."

"There—there is some one coming!" she murmured, dazed, bewildered by the sudden rush of glad emotion that filled her being.

HEALTHY CHILDREN ARE A BLESSING

Healthy babies are good babies, and the good baby is a blessing in every home. Nothing can give the mother or father more pleasure than to see baby play. Every movement is watched with delight; every new word spoken brings pride to the fond parents. It is only the sickly baby that makes home wretched—and, mothers, it is not baby's fault when he is sick. You are the one to blame. Perhaps you give him candies, cakes and other food which his little stomach is unable to digest. Then when he is cross and ailing you give him some "soothing" mixtures to quiet him. That is wrong—remember his little stomach is not as strong as a grown person's, and also remember that every spoonful of "soothing" mixture you give him only does him more injury—it does not remove the cause of his fretfulness—it merely dopes him into an unnatural sleep. What is needed to make baby healthy and happy is Baby's Own Tablets—a medicine with a guarantee of safety. About them Mrs. Mathies McCormick, West St. Peters, P.E.I., writes: "We have used Baby's Own Tablets with good results. They are certainly a blessing for mothers that have cross, sickly babies. They sweeten the stomach; give refreshing sleep and make baby fat and healthy." Sold the terms that develop these diseases, and fill the world with pitiable subjects hopelessly stricken. The use of this Syrup will prevent the dire consequences of neglected Colds. A trial, which costs only 25 cents, will convince you that this is correct.

And the advice of a critic does about as much good as the giving of medicine to a dead man.

Allen's Lung Balm is especially intended to break up neglected coughs, and many hopeless cases have been saved by its use. Contains no opium in any form.

WHERE?

"And where," demanded his wife, with flashing eyes, "would you be now, only for me?"

The man glanced at the clock. It was verging on midnight. He sighed, and was silent.

Too many candidates for office run in the wrong direction.

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. E. Edwell, of 337 Provencher Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says: "Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. This became very sore and blood-poisoning soon set in. For months after the children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me. "When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not have the desired effect. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was. Despite his care, however, it again festered and the ointments, liniments, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief. "The doctor thereupon advised me to go into the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed, and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand. "We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to a less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleaned, then healed in under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well; and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of agony." All mothers should note this case. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for blood-poisoning, festering, etc., scratches from barbed wire, bruises, eczema, measles, tetter, etc.; rheum, face sores, ulcers, piles, bad leg, various sores, and all skin, throat and diseases. See a box of Zam-Buk and scores of positive cures from Zam-Buk Co. Toronto, for price. Send in stamp for postage of receipt from R. W. Hall, Ltd.

newspaper came as an apt finish to her commonsense reasoning on her position. "I am so glad!"

Her undoubted pleasure sent a thrill through his veins.

"But I thought you adored money!" he said, fixing his gray eyes on her fair, sweet face.

Nancy shook her head.

"I would not exchange my present lot for all the money in the world, Mr. Darnley."

Darnley drew a shade closer to her.

"Wouldn't you?" he said, with a dangerous tenderness in his voice. "Neither would I, Nancy."

Then he was silent. He felt as if he could pour out words of love, or protestations, but he saw her shy, startled look, and he restrained himself.

After all, they were scarcely more than strangers to each other; he must not frighten her; he must have patience and wait.

"I see your locket is not harmed," he said, lightly, after a pause, during which Nancy had gone on a vague, yet indescribable delicious mental journey.

She wore the locket dangling round her neck on a slender chain.

As he spoke, she lifted it to her lips and kissed it.

"No. I am so glad!—so glad!"

The young man's face grew suddenly dark, a wild throb of burning jealousy overcame him.

"You—you seem to prize that locket very highly!" he said curtly.

Nancy looked startled.

"Yes, it was my mother's. It is the only thing belonging to her that I possess. My uncle's wife took all her poor little treasures; but this is mine—my very own. I will never part with it. Look, here is her portrait; and this is my father. Is not her face sweet?"

Darnley gazed at the two pictures silently; and then, as Nancy closed the locket and they turned to go back to the Hall, in answer to the dinner gong, he took her little hand in his, and then, suddenly and with tender courtesy, pressed his lips to it.

It was his sign of contrition and delight at this proof of her confidence and friendship.

CHAPTER VII.

The day of Dorothy's tennis fete was cloudless and glorious. The heat was intense, but this seemed to have no effect whatever upon the exuberant spirits of the Hon. Maude and Ella Chester. They were dressed early in their white frocks, made a la bebe, a style which Lady Burton determined most becoming to their large, rather clumsy figures, as being so young and innocent-looking.

Nancy was busy arranging the flowers all over the house, as they passed through to the tennis court.

"But you will be baked alive!" she cried, in remonstrance, as Ella informed her they were going to have a good practice. "The heat is something terrific!"

"Oh, we don't mind it!" the Hon. Maude answered; "and," she declared, with the most ingenious frankness, "we mean to win that lovely diamond brooch Sir Humphrey is giving for the first prize; don't we, Ella?"

"Yes," agreed Ella. "It's no fun playing for nothing."

Nancy smiled as she watched the two energetic forms cross the lawn, and then returned to her flowers. It was a work of love with her, able party was gathered together at the Hall. Every one treated Nancy most kindly; the men, perhaps, a trifle more kindly than the ladies, but that was natural, for few women are without a slight sensation of jealousy, and there was something about Nancy's picturesque, poetical face, irregular as it was, that was far more dangerous than actual beauty of form and feature. Even Dorothy sometimes paled beside her, for Sir Humphrey's daughter lacked the intellectuality and depth of feeling possessed by the other girl, who despite her many years' contact with vulgar, hard, cruel surroundings, rose, phoenix-like, from the ashes of the past, and took her proper place in her proper sphere.

As the clock struck nine, Nancy gave a sigh of mingled pleasure and fatigue.

"There," she said to herself, stepping back and surveying her handiwork, "I think that will do. I only want a few red roses for that bowl, and the room will look perfect. I shall just catch Murdock in the rose garden if I run now." She hurried out into the hall, and, picking up a gigantic red cotton umbrella, prepared to sally out into the hot morning sun, when a step on the stairs and a clear whistle arrested her.

A rush of vivid color dyed her cheeks, but the umbrella mercifully hid this, for it shed a ruddy hue all over her.

"Mr. Darnley!—what extraordinary exertion! Are you bound for the tennis court? You will find Miss Chester and Miss Ella there already."

"Thanks," observed Derrick Darnley, with a smile, as he took her extended hand, and thought he had never seen anything so dainty or so delicately tantalizing as Nancy in her cotton gown, with her soft white throat unembarrassed by collar or low-lying hair, "the prospect is most tempting, but I have other fish to fry; in plain words, I have just had a wire from my mother telling me she is to arrive to-day, and so, like a dutiful son, I am off to meet her. Are you going to the gardens? I will walk with you. I have heaps of time—the wagonette can't be ready for half-an-hour at least."

"I think you ought to go and greet the Chester girls," Nancy observed, slyly, as they sauntered across the hot grass together.

"Do you? I don't!"

"Please don't be rude, Mr. Darnley."

"Please allow me to be just what I like, Miss Hamilton."

"I shall do nothing of the sort; the day is much too lovely for people to be in bad tempers."

ROBBER SHOT HIMSELF.

Caught After Taking Jewellery, Masked Man Suicided.

The other day, a crowd of shoppers was startled by seeing a large stone crash through the glittering windows of the shop of Herr Elmeyer, court jeweller, in Dresden, Germany. It had been thrown by a well-dressed young man wearing a mask and glasses. In his hand he held another stone, with which he smashed the glass of a showcase in the window.

He seized a pearl necklace worth $10,000 and other jewels worth $7,500 or more and fled up the street. The buyers in the shop who had seen the robbery dashed out in pursuit. The chase led over the Altmarkt (a large open square in Dresden), where the robber dropped his plunder on the pavement.

He next dashed into the Prefecture, a building in the Schlossstrasse, opposite the royal castle, and ran upstairs to the second floor. Seeing no possibility of escape he drew a revolver and shot himself through the head, dropping dead before his pursuers' eyes. His identity is unknown. He appears to be aged about twenty-five, and the police believe that he is a foreigner.

BORDER MILL GIRLS.

Change in Apparel Among Scotch Mill Workers.

Within the last twenty years or so a marked change has come over the mill lassies of the Scotch border towns. In decorum and dress there has been a wonderful improvement. Not so many years ago the three-cornered shawl and clogs were all the rage. There was something picturesque about the former, and to the stranger the clatter of "the clogged brigade" at the meal hour was quite a treat, in some mills hats were the exception and worn only by the aristocrats—the pickers and darners.

All that is now wholly changed. A visitor to Galashiels after seeing the mill lassies pass along the High street to their work, remarked, "There is surely lots of money in the town; the mill girls are all dressed in style." A "braw lad," on a visit to his native town after the lapse of years, was heard to observe that "the Gala lassies are aye dress'd—they're like ladies." Such observations are often more true of the lassies of the smaller border towns. To see the modern border mill girls on their way out or on Sundays is to see them at their best, and to realize how much they are ahead of their prototypes.

EVERY SHORT AND RIGHT TO THE POINT

FRANK MILLER TELLS WHY HE RECOMMENDS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He used them for Rheumatism, Heart Disease and Lumbago, and they went right to the root of his troubles.

Elkmouth, B.C., Feb. 6 (Special)—Frank Miller, section foreman on the railroad here, whose work exposes him to all kinds of weather, has discovered that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sovereign remedy for those kidney ills that almost invariably follow neglected colds.

"For four years I suffered from Lumbago, Heart Disease and Rheumatism, brought on from a cold," says Mr. Miller. "And I got the very best results from using Dodd's Kidney Pills. I freely recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from these diseases."

Short and to the point, that statement, isn't it? But it is just like Dodd's Kidney Pills. They go right to the point. They cure the kidneys. Healthy kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood means good circulation and renewed life and energy all over the body.

Thus Dodd's Kidney Pills not only cure disease. They tone up the whole body and make a man feel that he has been given a new lease of life. That's why people all over Canada are shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

PURE WATER SAVED BABIES.

Hamburg Did not Banish Typhoid, but Cut Down Infant Mortality.

Scientists in Germany and throughout Europe are surprised at the results following the purification of the water supply of Hamburg, Germany. It was expected to eliminate typhoid. It did not accomplish that result, but it reduced instead the infant mortality one-third or more. The latest word from America, especially from the city of Washington, confirms the observations made in Hamburg, namely, that purification of the water whatever other good it may accomplish, will not banish typhoid. That protean disease appears to attack a community through many other channels, and its elimination remains a puzzling problem for science to deal with.

In Hamburg, by water purification, the infant death rate has been reduced from 405 per 1,000 births to 240 per 1,000 births. Similar conclusions have been reached in the United States by M. T. Sedgwick and G. Scott MacNutt, who have collected figures to show a great improvement in the general death rate due to water purification. They have compared the vital statistics of Hamburg and of Lawrence, Mass., with those of cities which have unpurified water, and they say they are convinced that water purification causes an absence of great fluctuation in diarrhoeal and other ailments.

A RESOURCEFUL PRINCE.

Prince John, son of King George of England, although not much more than five years old, is of a resourceful disposition. When his father succeeded to the throne the little prince, then four years old, was anxious to know what chance he had of eventually becoming king. He was informed that having four elder brothers, the chance was decidedly remote. Upon that Prince John suggested that the only way out of the difficulty seemed that his four elder brothers should be killed, when nothing could prevent his succeeding to the throne.

NO USE TO EXPLAIN.

A colored man was brought before a police judge charged with stealing chickens. He pleaded guilty and received sentence, when the judge asked how it was that he managed to lift those chickens right under the window of the owner's house when there was a dog in the yard.

"It wouldn't be no use, judge," said the man, "to try to 'plain dis thing to yo' all. Ef yo was to try it yo like as not would get yer hide full of shot an' get no chickens, nuther. Ef yo' want to engage in any rascality, judge, yo' better stick to de bench, whar yo' am familiar."

FROM MARYS TO THEIR QUEEN

WOMAN RAISING FUND FOR CORONATION GIFT.

Proposed That All Namesakes of the Queen Shall Contribute.

Some women in London were having tea together and discussing the coming Coronation, when suddenly one of them drew attention to the fact that the Christian name of every woman in the room was the same as the Queen's, and suggested that it would be a good idea for all the Marys present to contribute and send a Coronation gift to the Queen.

The others accepted the suggestion with enthusiasm, and it was agreed to let some other Marys equally distinguished know of the plan and join in the contributing. The other namesakes of the Queen were equally enthusiastic and appeals came from less distinguished Marys that they too have a share in the gift.

Another meeting was held by the originators of the plan, and it was finally arranged that every Mary in Great Britain should have a chance to contribute, so now be they rich or poor, young or old, lowly or exalted, may send any sum from one penny to one pound toward buying a gift for their Royal namesake.

The Duchess of Devonshire, the Marchioness of Graham, Lady Mary Trefusis and Lady Waldegrave, who were among the originators of the scheme, are managing everything in a business like way. They have appointed well known Marys all over the country as heads of committees to receive contributions from their own districts. Lady Mary Trefusis, who is a woman of the bedchamber to the Queen, is the chairwoman of the London committee, and really the head of the whole organization.

THERE ARE MANY MARYS.

Nobody knows how many Marys there are in the Empire, but it is safe to say that the bearers of no other name exceed them in number. In lone Bute and Cumbræ, where Lady Bute sent out a circular to her own people, instant replies were received from 1,200 Marys, and that is a fair sample of how many contributions are likely to be received and what proportion of English women bear the name of Mary.

The committee when it decided to make the gift come from all the Marys even went so far as to include all permutations of their name, so money is being sent from Marions, Mays, Marians, Marias, and Maries as well as the actual Marys themselves.

A list is to be kept of all the contributors and this will be presented to the Queen also, but the amount of money contributed by each sender will be known only to the committee receiving it. So the Mary who can afford only a few pence will have no cause for embarrassment.

The Queen is said to look with favor on the scheme, which has been explained to her by Lady Mary Trefusis. There was at first some fear

MORE GREAT BATTLESHIPS

TWO DREADNOUGHTS BEGUN IN ENGLAND.

Each Will Be Twice as Powerful as Was the Original Dreadnought.

Ever since a certain Power obtained the complete designs of Britain's first Dreadnought before that vessel was ready for launching the British Admiralty has displayed an amount of secrecy over its naval shipbuilding that could not be surpassed even in Germany, writes a London correspondent. The utmost precautions have been taken to guard the secrets of the two battleships King George V. and Centurion, which were begun on Monday. Only a very few privileged persons were present at the keel laying of these vessels, and press representatives and photographers were barred from the ceremony.

The King George V. is being constructed at Portsmouth naval dockyard, and the Centurion at the Devonport naval dockyard. No details of their design are officially obtainable, nor have any particulars of their dimensions been supplied, but enough is known of the vessels to give figures which will prove approximately correct.

The vessels are two of the five first class battleships provided in the 1910-11 naval estimates. All of these ships have been ordered. They are as follows: King George V., Centurion, Ajax, Audacious, and a battleship cruiser.

The first four will be sister ships of the super-Dreadnought type, and they will embody many IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS upon vessels of the Orion class, their immediate predecessors, of which four are building for the navy. The following comparison of the King George V. with the Orion and the original Dreadnought will show the great progress made in battleship construction since the birth of the Dreadnought era.

|                    | King George V.                             | Orion                                      | Dreadnought        |

| Broadside, pounds  | 18,000                                     | 13,000                                     | 6,980              |

It will be seen that, judged by hitting capacity, the King George V. will be nearly twice as powerful as the Dreadnought. The distribution of the armament is not yet known, but it is assumed that all the ten 13.5 inch twin barbettes will be on the centre line, with the second and fourth so raised as to permit of a four gun fire ahead and astern. All ten can fire on the broadside with large arcs of fire. The 13.5 inch gun will fire a 1,250 pound shell.

The thickest armor of the original Dreadnought was 11 inches of Krupp steel.

THE THICKEST ARMOR

of the King George V. and her sisters will be 12 inches, of Simpson steel, which is greatly superior in its resisting power.

The original Dreadnought carried five 18 inch torpedo tubes. The King George V. will have three

BABOONS AND TIGER.

Animated Scene in a South African Forest.

Evidence of a baboon's loyalty to a comrade and courage in the face of the tiger, the most dreaded animal of the South African veldt, is given by Sir Percy Fitzpatrick, the explorer, in his "Jock of the Bushveldt." As Sir Percy's party was passing along a ridge, its attention was called to a troop of baboons in the ravine below.

The baboons had evidently been quite close to us, writes the explorer. On being warned by their sentry, they had stolen quietly away, and were then disappearing into the timbered depths of the ravine. We sat still to watch them come out on the opposite side a few minutes later and clamber up the rocky face, for they were always worth watching; but while we watched, the stillness was broken by an agonized scream, — horribly human in its expression of terror, — followed by roars, barks, bellows and screams from scores of voices in every key; and the crackle of breaking sticks and the rattle of stones added to the medley of sound as the baboons raced out of the wood and up the bare rocky slope.

"What is it?" "What's the matter?" "There's something after them!" "Look! look!" "There they come!" burst from one and another of us as we watched the extraordinary scene.

The cries from below seemed to waken the whole mountain; great booming "Waugh's!" came from the different places far apart and ever so high up the face of the berg; each big roar seemed to act like a trumpet-call and bring forth a multitude of others; the air rang with bewildering shouts and echoes volleying round the kloofs and faces of the berg. The strange thing was that the baboons did not continue their terrified scramble up the mountain, but once out in the brush, they turned and rallied. Forming an irregular semi-circle, they faced down the hill, thrusting their heads forward with sudden jerks as if to launch their cries with greater vehemence, and feinting to charge, they showered loose earth, stones and debris of all sorts down with awkward underhand scrapes of their forepaws, and gradually but surely descended to within a dozen yards of the edge of the bust.

"Baas, baas, the tiger! Look, the tiger, there, there on the rock below!"

Jim shot the words out in vehement gusts choky with excitement; and true enough, there the tiger was. The long, spotted body was crouched on a flat rock just below the baboons; he was broadside to us, with his fore quarters slightly raised, and his face turned toward the baboons; with wide-opened mouth he snarled savagely at the advancing line, and with right paw raised made threatening dabs in their direction. His left paw pinned down the body of a baboon.

The voices from the mountain boomed louder and nearer us; clattering and scrambling down the face came more and more baboons. There must have been hundreds of them; the semi-circle grew thicker and blacker, more and more threatening, foot by foot closer. The tiger raised himself a little more, and took swift looks from side to side across the advancing front, and the Marys receiving it. So the Mary who can afford only a few pence will have no cause for embarrassment.

The Queen is said to look with favor on the scheme, which has been explained to her by Lady Mary Trefusis. There was at first some fear that she might decline to receive such a gift, but she has not done so, and has even expressed pleasure at the thought having suggested itself to her namesakes.

THE FORM OF THE GIFT

has not yet been decided. It may be that some very handsome ornament will be purchased with the money raised, or it is equally possible that the entire sum will be handed to the Queen to use for one of her pet charities. The ornament idea was greatest favor among the Marys, but no hint has been received as to what the Queen herself would prefer, and that will weigh largely with the committee of course.

The Mary's gift is bringing all the bearers of the name together everywhere throughout the country as well as in London. "Mary teas" are fashionable, and at "Mary luncheons" women who count Mary or any derivations among their Christian names meet for social purposes only.

200,000,000 LBS. OF CODFISH.

Newfoundland Destined to be the Great Fish Depot of the World.

"The cod is probably the most prolific of all sea fish," says Sir Edward Morris in the Wide World Magazine, "though its habitat does not extend over as large an area as other species. The cod is found only in northern waters, and will live and thrive in only certain temperatures. Some day, owing to the wonderful asset which Newfoundland possesses in her cod fishery, she is destined to be the great fish depot of the world. It is not alone on the great 'banks,' many miles off her coasts, that cod are found in countless millions, but around the whole island—on the 'ledges' and 'grounds' off the capes and promontories that jut into the Atlantic, as well as on the Labrador coast, for a stretch of 1,000 miles. In these regions you require no hatcheries to aid the wonderful fecundity of Nature; indeed, it is doubtful if you require any laws or regulations to protect these fisheries, unless it be in the shoal waters of the bays."

Notwithstanding that for 300 years the fisheries of these waters have been prosecuted by the rival fishermen of two hemispheres, the largest catch of cod ever taken on the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts was that secured in 1909, the yield being estimated in weight at 1,800,000 quintals, or 201,000,000 pounds, to which may be added 200,000 quintals—the quantity locally consumed in Newfoundland during and after the fishing season. The value of the fish alone, without any regard to the by-products—oil, roes, skin, offal, etc.—is $10,000,000."

HIS REASON.

She—Why does Mr. Johnson always smoke such long cigars?

He—I don't know, but I suppose he wants to get as far away from the smell of them as possible.

the sheds on the quays for a living, and the Clyde trustees have had to set up an official rat-catcher.

The last of the old slum area in Port Glasgow has been demolished. The new houses and shops in the reconstructed area mark a vast improvement in the burgh.

The late Earl of Ancaster's annual gift of coal to the poor of Crieff and Muthill was given on the 6th instant, when over 50 tons of coal were distributed amongst 74 persons.

The coffins of a famous Earl of Lindsay and Crawford and his Countess, covered with red cloth, and kept in a shed at Ceres churchyard for over 160 years, were lately ordered to be buried, and a grave was dug for them, but the order has been cancelled.

MOTORS FOR OCEAN LINERS.

Large Number of Craft Will be Utilizing Oil for Fuel.

So satisfactory are the developments in connection with motor-propelled vessels, that persons well competent to judge think that within the next five years a large number of boats without boilers or funnels will be crossing the Atlantic.

An 8,000 ton motor boat for the transport of cargo is being built at Hamburg, Germany, for the Hamburg-American Line, and a good deal is understood to depend on the result of this initial experiment.

A passenger and cargo liner of 5,000 tons, equipped with internal combustion engines, is about to be laid down by a Clyde, Scotland, firm. The vessel is intended for a Danish company, and in her case will be possible to start the engines in five minutes, as compared with the fifteen hours required to raise steam with boilers.

It is also estimated that 100 tons of oil will take a liner as far as three hundred tons of coal.

At Middlesborough, England, orders have been booked for two Norwegian whalers, to be driven by Diesel motors, while at Wallsend, a large freighter similarly propelled is being completed for service on the Canadian canals and lakes.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Slander soon dies if you take it out of circulation.

The best way to lift men is to meet them on a level.

Heavy words in meeting will not make up for short weight in market.

Heresy hunting is merely an obsession of omniscience.

We find the worst in all by trying to get the best of anyone.

The worst foe you have is the man who would kill all your enemies.

Modern life pushes a man into the mud and then chides him for materialism.

Some turn their backs on ordinary principles to gaze at heavenly prospects.

With all our doing things for people they need most our being men to them.

Magnify your personal rights and you are sure to create some social wrongs.

A man may go up when you kick him, but you cannot claim credit for kindness.

Boasting of saying what you think is often an excuse for not thinking what you say.

Progress in the human race depends less on getting ahead than on helping along.

THE THICKEST ARMOR

of the King George V. and her sisters will be 12 inches, of Simpson steel, which is greatly superior in its resisting power.

The original Dreadnought carried five 18 inch torpedo tubes. The King George V. will have three tubes firing the 21-inch torpedo with a range of 7,000 yards.

The contract for the fifth vessel of the 1910-11 programme, a battleship cruiser, has just been awarded to Messrs. Palmer at Jarrow. Her turbines will be built by the Wallsend Slipway and Engineering Company, who constructed the turbines for the Orion as well as those for the Mauretania. The new battleship cruiser will be a mighty vessel, with engines more powerful than even those of the big Cunarder.

When the five battleships of the 1910-11 programme are completed by the spring of 1913 the British navy will possess a total of twenty-five vessels of the Dreadnought class as follows:

Dreadnought Battleships—Ten armed each with 12 inch guns.

Dreadnought Cruisers—Four each armed with eight 12 inch guns.

Super-Dreadnought Battleships—Eight armed each ten 13.5 inch guns.

THE GERMAN NAVY

may be set forth briefly as follows: Five Dreadnoughts are in commission—the Nassau, Westfalen, Rheinland, Posen and the battleship cruiser Von der Tann. Four others are to be completed in the spring and summer of the present year—the Ostfriesland, Heliogoland, Thuringen, and the battleship cruiser Moltke. These belong to the programme of 1903.

The 1909 programme includes four additional ships—the Oldenburg, launched last June, and the Ersatz Heimdal and Ersatz Hildebrand, and a battleship cruiser, H, which should have been launched by this time and cannot be long delayed. They will be completed in the spring and autumn of 1912. At that date Germany will have thirteen Dreadnoughts ready to twenty or twenty-two British, including the colonial vessels.

In 1913 Germany will add four other vessels of the 1910 programme and in 1914 four more, which are to be ordered officially next April, making a total of twenty-one. At that date Great Britain will have twenty-five Dreadnoughts completed, and there will be the two colonial vessels if no further new ones are ordered.

TWO DEER WITH ONE SHOT.

While shooting among the deer at Crofton Hall Park, England, Sir Hylton Brisco killed two deer with one shot. The first bullet went right through one animal, and entered another that was running alongside.

It is no use holding up the divine throne if you're treading on the children's toes to do it.

the face came more and more baboons. There must have been hundreds of them; the semi-circle grew thicker and blacker, more and more threatening, foot by foot closer. The tiger raised himself a little more, and took swift looks from side to side across the advancing front, and then his nerve went, and with one spring he shot from the rock into the bush.

There was an instant forward rush of the half-moon, and the rock was covered by roaring baboons, swarming over their rescued comrade; and a moment later the crowd scrambled up the slope again, taking the tiger's victim with them. In that seething rabble I could pick out nothing; but all the Kaffirs maintained that they could see the mangled one dragged along by its arms by two others, much as a child might be helped up-hill.

WANTED A SALUTE.

Czar's Boy Said He Would Not Tell His Father.

A good story of the six-year-old Czarevitch is now going the rounds of society in St. Petersburg. His Imperial Highness is, of course, greeted with a salute wherever he passes a sentry in the palace precincts. Recently, however, it became evident that the honor so much gratified the young Prince that many unnecessary excursions were being made past the box of a certain sentry, the customary salute being accorded every time. The matter reached the ears of his father, who, to give his son a lesson, issued orders that in future no notice should be taken of the Czarevitch's comings and goings by the sentries. The dismay of the heir was profound when, on passing his favorite sentry box the next morning he found that his presence was ignored. In childish indignation he went to the sentry and demanded the reason of the omission. "It is by the Czar's orders," was the reply. This seemed at first to settle the matter, but after a few moments cogitation the Royal youngster approached the sentry again and said, pleadingly: "Please just do it this once, and I promise you father shan't hear anything about it."

FRENCH PENSION SCHEME.

Twelve Million Workers Affected if Legislation is Enacted.

In the compulsory old-age pension plan put forward by the French Government, which is designed to supplement the present voluntary system, it is held by M. Chéron of the Department of Labor, that no less than 12,000,000 workers would benefit under the new law.

The contributory principle is to be compulsory in the case of all wage-earners of both sexes who are employed either in industry, commerce, agriculture or domestic service, or by the State, the territorial departments, or the communes, who are at present without title to a pension, and who in these capacities earn less than $600 a year. Pensions are to be payable at the age of sixty-five. Workers may claim payment of their pensions in consequence of permanent disablement.

MASQUERADING AS MALES

WOMEN WHO CONDESCEND TO BECOME "MEN."

Most Extraordinary Cases of Females Who Have Donned Men's Attire.

Some five or six years ago a girl named Shilson was arrested for fraud in England. She was dressed in man's clothes, and was noted for being a very heavy smoker. No one suspected her identity until she jumped from the railway carriage in which she was travelling, and was killed by a passing train, says London Answers.

Many of these male impersonators have taken to men's clothing for the purpose of swindling the innocents of the world, and they succeed more easily, as a rule, than the stronger sex. Some do it, however, merely as an odd craze, or because necessity compels them to.

Necessity, you say! Yes, necessity. One such case will easily be recalled of a woman who was allowed to dress in male attire. The German police have a very strict regulation that each sex must wear the clothing that is customary to it; but in this particular instance they issued a license early last year giving her permission to go about in male apparel. She is twenty-five, and is so masculine in her general appearance, gait, and demeanor that she has been several times arrested on suspicion of being

A MAN IN WOMAN'S CLOTHING

Before she was allowed to change her clothing the German police took the advice of medical experts. They gave it as their opinion that, though she was a woman, her features, character and appearance were those of a man, and she was far less likely to attract the attention of the multitude in trousers than in petticoats.

A still more remarkable case was that of Nicolas de Raylan, whose secret was only revealed on her death, four years ago. She was secretary to the Russian Consulate in Chicago, and held her own with the men she met in drinking and smoking. She was noted, too, for being a most daring and expert rider—riding, of course, astride. Not only in these things did she imitate man, but she followed it up by being three times married.

Another woman who married a woman was a Londoner, Catherine Coombes. She posed as a man under the name of "Charlie Wilson," and she married, and lived with her "wife" for fourteen years before she gave herself up to the police, and told them the amazing story of her life.

Only as recently as last January a smart young girl was brought before the New York magistrates on a charge of dressing in male costume. She had been employed for some time as a male helper in a hotel kitchen.

BATTLESHIP NAMED FOR KING

THE LAST REIGN'S PRECEDENT STILL RULES.

The Name "King George V." will Not Recall Ill-fated "Royal George."

The New York Herald's naval correspondent writes from London as follows:—

"The decision of the naval authorities in the matter of the name of the first battleship to be laid down in the present reign has been the cause of some discussion on naval nomenclature. It has been thought likely that this ship would be called the Royal George, although that name is in the minds of most people only connected with the disaster commemorated in Cowper's dirge:—

Toll for the brave!

The brave that are no more!

All sunk beneath the wave,

Fast by their native shore!

"However, the precedent of the last reign, when the first battleship was named the King Edward VII., is to be followed, and the next ship will be christened the King George V.

KING NAMES SHIPS.

"It is an open secret that King George himself has selected this name, and there is a consensus of opinion that in this matter the choice is judicious. When Queen Victoria was on the throne it does not appear to have been her practice to worry much about the names of ships, but with King Edward this was changed, and although the controller had a suggested list to the First Lord, his late Majesty took a decided interest in the matter.

"Seeing the close relationship in which Lord Fisher stood to the throne, doubtless his advice was taken. This was certainly so in the case of the Dreadnought. Considering his close association with the navy, it would have been surprising if King George had not followed his father's example. His interest in naval traditions is also shown by the further selection of names like the Centurion, the Ajax and the Audacious for the three sister ships to the King George V., all these names having been borne by ships of mark in the service.

NEW SYSTEM FOR CRUISERS.

"In regard to cruisers, a new system was instituted some little time back, approximating to that which is a law in the United States. A territorial connection was set up, first with the counties and then with the principal towns. This has in late years been extended also to the colonies and overseas dominions. As in America, so here the localities honored have responded to the invitation, and have in nearly every case presented their namesakes afloat with some souvenir of the connection.

"Two of the cruisers now building for the colonies are to be named the Sydney and the Melbourne, and those about to be laid down for the imperial navy will be named after Chatham, Dublin and Southampton. Many of these territorial names are not new to the navy, but they were first introduced to commemorate people of distinction and

DAMMING OF THE EUPHRATES

MESOPOTAMIA TO AGAIN BE A FERTILE REGION.

Three Million Acres to be Irrigated Under the Proposed Scheme.

After the Nile the Euphrates. Both are to be dammed, and both by Englishmen.

Sir John Jackson, the engineer and contractor, has just signed a contract with the Turkish Government-General of Bagdad for the construction of a great dam at the Hindia section of the Euphrates, with the expected result that Mesopotamia will again become one of the most fertile regions of the world.

This new Turkish irrigation plan is based upon the recommendation of Sir William Willcocks. This involved the irrigation of over 3,000,000 acres, at an estimated

COST OF $37,000,000

Since the submission of that scheme in 1908 a large staff of engineers has been at work surveying the ground and studying the conditions with the result that new plans of a more limited scope were prepared and approved by the Turkish Government.

The damming of the head of the Hindia Canal forms part of the new scheme. The canal is an ancient cutting which the Euphrates in recent years has followed, in preference to its own bed, with disastrous consequences.

The original Euphrates, passing through Babylon, is now quite dry in Summer, all the water flowing down the canal except in flood time. Cultivation on the Euphrates banks has, therefore, been almost abandoned, the population having migrated across country to the Hindia Canal. The canal, however, never having been meant to contain the whole of the Euphrates, has become badly water-logged, and much good land has become swamp.

The Turks have been trying for years to construct a barrage which would force part of the water back into the bed of the Euphrates and permit regulation of the flow in the canal,

BUT WITHOUT SUCCESS.

Sir William Willcocks' engineers succeeded in filling up the space between the two arms of the barrage, only to find the structure breached at another point when the water came down in flood. Completion of this scheme will have the important result of restoring prosperity to the banks of the Euphrates proper, and of greatly improving the conditions along the length of the canal.

The principal crops in order of importance that would be planted are wheat, barley, rice, sesame and cotton. It is estimated that about 800,000 acres of land will be placed under wheat, and on the basis of a ton from every acre the Mesopotamian wheat would amount to about 30,000,000 bushels.

SURE CURE FOR OLD AGE

FLATTERY JUDICIOUSLY ADMINISTERED IS ALL.

Touch the Old Folks' Pride and They Get a New Lease of Life.

Flattery is the newest balm to cure old age, and all the particulars concerning this remedy will be found set forth in an article by Dr. I. L. Nascher in the Medical Record.

He does not say how much he has used it in his practice, but he seems to prefer it to arsenic, in small quantities, of course, for the cure of senile debility.

In the opinion of this shrewd judge of human nature, old age is not a condition, but a state of mind and it can be averted by the psychic means. There are plenty of old boys now walking about the streets who have never grown up, and they will be all the brighter if reminded how young they look. Old age comes when a man begins to slump and let his backbone collapse. If he holds himself straight, and pride will make him do that, he will keep young.

The physician declares old age to be a mental and physical disfigurement and he lays special stress on the mind part of the complaint. Therefore, he warns those who are advancing in years to maintain pride in their personal appearance, stop worrying, stand erect, and look the world square in the eye. The relatives of friends of the aged he advises to do all they can to cheer them up by telling them how gay and young they look.

"Flatter an old fellow upon his youthful appearance and activity," continues Dr. Nascher, "and you arouse in him a sense of pride in his appearance. He will try to appear youthful and by sitting up or standing erect to show that he is not as old in feeling as he is in years.

"The old soldier tottering along braces up as he passes the reviewing stand, and with his head erect and shoulders thrown back, chest out, he makes a firmer step, his knees seem more limber and he raises his hand in saluting with a spryness that belittles his decrepit appearance of a few minutes before. The same youthful change is seen in the aged Romeo when he goes courting.

Here is cited the case of Mr. B., who was 71 years old and walked with a cane, without the use of which he tottered. Remarrying, he walked into the church as straight as could be and the same evening he danced with his bride and lifted her off the floor.

Also the physician refers to the case of Mr. and Mrs. G., aged, respectively 74 and 70, who danced at their golden wedding. They were flattered so much by those who witnessed their activity that at once the aged couple took a new lease of life. He resumed his former vocation of locksmith and she her household duties, although prior to the celebration they had been content to sit by the fire and consider themselves retired from all concerns of this life.

The physician finds that often the signs of senility which develop at the age of 60 are due to nervous have taken to the clothing of the lords of creation, not for any fraudulent purpose, but because they prefer it for ease and comfort. One of the best known of them was Rosa Bonheur, the famous animal painter, who for years lived in male attire. Another well-known Frenchwoman who has rejected petticoats in favor of trousers is the Marquise de Morny. She has published a great number of books, and has travelled all over Europe as a man, after having obtained the necessary permission from the French Government.

Madame Dieulafoy, the wife of the famous explorer and engineer, is another male impersonator. Her husband was sent in 1883 on a hazardous archaeological expedition to the valleys of the Tigris and Euphrates, and Madame Dieulafoy, who not only dresses like a man, but has cut her hair short to enhance the resemblance, accompanied him. The French Government recognized her services, granted her special permission to wear male attire, and, furthermore, decorated her with the order of the Legion of Honor.

INDIA LAND OF HOLIDAYS.

Every Sect and Tribe Has Separate Festivals.

India is a country of eternal holidays. Every sect and tribe, roughly speaking, has its own festivals, and these are religiously observed. On such occasions the open spaces are filled with swings and merry-go-rounds, and the booths where food and sweetmeats are sold do a roaring trade. It is very interesting to watch the different racial types that come to make holiday—here women veiled and mysterious, there women who show their faces and wear tight-fitting trousers instead of skirts. The people are of all shades—from the fair, almost European, complexion of the northern types, to the practically coal-black of the original Dravidian stock of the south. It is in India, at the typical religious fairs, that you will see the quaint originals of the "Great Wheels" known to exhibition visitors of the west.

SECRETS OF THE SEA.

Everybody has read of the discoveries made by dredging the sea-bottom along the shore of the antarctic continent but few have any idea how the work is done when the surface of the ocean is covered with ice five feet or more in thickness. The method employed is interestingly illustrated in the recent reports of the British Antarctic Expedition of 1907-9. Holes are made in the ice a considerable distance apart, and a cable, to which a dredge is attached, descends through one hole and emerges through the other. The dredge is so arranged that the open side is drawn ahead by pulling a cable. Ahead of the dredge a weight is attached which serves to keep the dredge on the bottom and in the right position. The cable is pulled by a man advancing from the forward hole as fast as it is paid out by another stationed at the rear hole. Thus, living creatures, as strange as the world as they inhabit, are brought up from beneath the eternal ice-sheet.

"Two of the cruisers now building for the colonies are to be named the Sydney and the Melbourne, and those about to be laid down for the imperial navy will be named after Chatham, Dublin and Southampton. Many of these territorial names are not new to the navy, but they were first introduced to commemorate people of distinction and title.

"It is, however, in regard to small craft that greater diversity of opinion prevails. Objections and protests are constantly made to the use of such names as Dove, Violet, Stag, Zephyr and Grasshopper for fighting ships, especially as they have no connection with maritime affairs or the navy. The suggestion has been made more than once to substitute for these botanical, zoological and entomological names those of naval officers who have distinguished themselves by gallantry in action.

"The proposal to commemorate the names of officers below those of flag rank who have lost their lives in face of the enemy, is said to have been favored by King George, but upon what authority the statement is made is not known."

ENGLISH DON'T SPEAK PLAIN.

Public School Singing a Cure for Mumbling.

Advocating the cause of Public School singing, the musical contributor of the London Times advances a practical reason for its continuance and increased cultivation. He says:—

"It is universally admitted that no nation in Europe speaks its own language with such unpardonable slovenliness as the English. We cut our consonants, murder our vowel sounds, telescope our little words, and drop our voices at the end. Such a national convention has indistinctness become that even our public singers take it for granted the words are not worth communicating. Sometimes they are, and we have our nine-day grumble, and then the indistinctness, like all other national institutions, continues in the old way. An early training in singing is one of the few hopeful ways of securing any improvement."

FRIED FISH SHOPS.

Best in London Town Are Kept By Jews.

The "best" fried-fish shops in London are kept by Jews. These shops charge higher rates than the others, twopence and threepence being the usual price. In others the humble halfpenny will produce a slice of fish. Many places use grease but the Jews use oil to fry the fish. Their shops are also said to be cleaner than the others.

The evening is the harvest time of the fried-fish shop. After six o'clock, when the tired and hungry workers are returning home, the seats in these places will all be occupied, and the rest of the shop filled with customers standing up devouring the luscious delicacy. The eel shops are particularly well patronized.

True charity will seek to purify the well, and not rest content with painting the pump.

MURDER ALMOST DAILY.

Eminent Frenchman Exposes Shameless Practices.

Dr. Doyen, the celebrated Paris surgeon, is quoted in a cable despatch to the New York Times to the effect that civilization is plagued by hordes of physicians who are worse than the charlatans of the middle ages. He says:—

"Operations by incompetent surgeons are being performed continually and actual murder is committed in this way almost daily. Other physicians form a ring to exploit a patient, passing him from one to the other, saying 'Go to Dr. Jones for the eyes, to Dr. Brown for the ears, and to Dr. Smith for the stomach,' etc.

"One of the commonest of witticisms of doctors is 'a millionaire always has a little piece of cartilage in his nose which can be removed for a large sum of money.' Only last week I overheard one surgeon ask another, 'Why did you operate on so-and-so for cataract before it was ripe?' 'If I had done otherwise my patient would have gone to another doctor,' was the reply.

"I also know of several cases of alleged operations in laparotomy when the surgeon merely cut the skin and renewed it.

"Other charlatans when they hear the name of a man who is about to undergo an operation search for the name of the surgeon in the case and sometimes they come three and four at a time demanding commissions, pretending that they are the family physicians of the patient."

"Do you believe that a doctor should charge in proportion to the wealth of the patient?" was asked.

"Yes," was the reply, "because physicians make no charge to the poor. Also I believe that a family physician should have a commission when he is forced to advise a patient to go to a specialist. However, instead of the specialist giving the commission secretly the patient should pay each openly."

A SCOTTISH EXPLORER.

The Remains of Major Laing Have Been Found.

A correspondent writing from Timbuctoo announces the discovery of the remains of the Scottish explorer, Major Alexander Gordon Laing, who was murdered by natives in 1826 between Timbuctoo and Arawan while exploring the sources of the Niger on behalf of the British Government. Major Laing, who was the son of a classical teacher, in Edinburgh, was an African traveller of considerable repute. At the outset of his career he entered the army, and while serving in the West Indies was appointed a lieutenant and adjutant. In 1819 he was sent to Sierra Leone, where he was seized with fever, and narrowly escaped death. He subsequently distinguished himself in the Ashantee war, and in 1825 he was promoted to the rank of captain and major. Later he was attached to an expedition appointed to explore the course of the Niger, and was engaged in this work he was treacherously assassinated by his guides.

the aged couple took a new lease of life. He resumed his former vocation of locksmith and she her household duties, although prior to the celebration they had been content to sit by the fire and consider themselves retired from all concerns of this life.

The physician finds that often the signs of senility which develop at the age of 60 are due to psychic causes, and urges that everything ought to be done to get the aged into cheerful moods if they would maintain their health and vigor.

ALL FOR THE KING.

When Subjects Present Presents to Their Sovereigns.

Three or four hundred years ago everyone who came to Court brought a present for the monarch. To-day the case is changed. Sovereigns of civilized countries are very chary about receiving gifts from private individuals, and though enormous numbers are offered, as a rule only those made by personal friends are accepted. It is different, of course, with gifts such as diamonds offered the Queen by the Union of South Africa. Such a present is accepted as a graceful act of homage, exactly as the original Cullinan stone, the greatest diamond the world's mines ever yielded, was accepted by the late King.

At the present time, presents from subjects are sometimes accepted by monarchs. As King Edward was driving through London to lay the foundation stone of the new building of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, a buxom flower-girl—Margaret Smith by name—took up her stand at the corner of Oxford Street and Shaftesbury Avenue armed with a great bunch of sweet-smelling roses, which she meant as a loyal present to his Majesty. Knowing she could not stop the carriage to offer them, she threw them into the vehicle, and although poor Margaret got into trouble, it only lasted a short time.

Oddly enough, a somewhat similar incident occurred in 1903, when the German Empress was paying a visit to the Madgeburg Hospital in Berlin. A huge bunch of flowers, thrown by an enthusiastic admirer, knocked her hat off, and nearly stunned her. But recovering quickly, she gave the unlucky donor a kindly smile, and ordered her companion to place the flowers on the seat in front of her.

The German Emperor has a pet paper-weight, which always lies on his study table. It is a morsel of volcanic rock broken from the summit of Mount Kilima Njaro, the topmost pinnacle of German territory in Africa. It was presented by the Explorer, Dr. Buchner.

On her twelfth birthday, a Dutch school-girl of Deventer sent to Queen Wilhelmina a splendid plum cake made and baked by herself, and bearing on its sugared top the Queen's name in iced letters. The Queen not only accepted the present, but wrote to the little girl an autograph letter, and sent her own signed photograph.

When our present King was starting on his world tour, all sorts of remedies for sea-sickness arrived by every post. Among others a chemist sent from a country town a huge package of anti-sea-sick powders, one to be taken every day while at sea.—London Answers.

NEWS NOTES.

Kingston, Feb. 19th.—The annual meeting of The British Whig Publishing Company was held on Saturday afternoon. Owing to the death of Mr. E. J. B. Fense, the late President, changes in the directorate and officers were made necessary. J. G. Elliott was elected President of the company, and L. A. Guild Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Elliott, who has been over thirty years in The Whig office, will continue as Managing Editor, and Mr. Guild, for twelve years associated with the company, will continue as Business Manager.

Kingston, Feb. 20th.—Cornelius Baden, clerk in Steacy & Steacy's dry goods store, committed suicide this evening about 10.15 o'clock in a small hotel on Wellington street. He drank about an ounce of carbolic acid in an upstairs room. His cries of agony brought help at once, and a doctor was summoned, but the young man was beyond recovery, dying in a very short time. His rash act is attributed to melancholia. A few months ago he was married to a young widow of this city and resided on King street west. He was about thirty-three years old. Dr. Ross, Coroner, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

We learn to-day of the removal from Peterborough of Luman Sherwood, C. E., who has been acting in the capacity of Assistant Chief Engineer on Trent Valley Canal. He has been called to Ottawa to assume the position of Principle Assistant Engineer to the Department of railways and canals. Mr. Sherwood was born in this town and after finishing his Napanee Collegiate course went to the Royal Military College from which he graduated with honors. We are pleased to learn of the advancement of another of our Napanee boys and confirms us in our belief of the excellence of our Collegiate Institute. When backed by hard work and intelligent persistence our Collegiate furnishes the ground work for future advancement. We extend our sincere congratulations to Mr. Sherwood with best wishes for his continued success and advancement.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber,

Feb. 20th, 1911.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor A. S. Kimmerly in the chair.

All the members present except Reeve Alexander.

The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from Mr. S. R. Miller and Mrs. J. Daly complaining that their property on the east side of John street, opposite the Dominion Bank, was being made untenable, owing to sewer gas escaping from the John street sewer. The cause of the obnoxious gases in the sewer presumably being caused by the exhaust from Craig's grist mill, which enters said sewer.

Moved by Coun. Waller, seconded by Coun. Denison, that the town solicitor be instructed to notify Mr. Craig to remedy the complained of nuisance. Carried.

A communication was read from the Board of Education asking the council to appoint a Sanitary Inspector at once.

Laid on the table until later in the evening.

A communication was read from the Board of Health, asking that the gentleman recommended by the Board of Health, be appointed Sanitary Inspector, and that the appointment be made as soon as possible.

Laid on the table.

Messrs. J. T. Grange and A. E. Paul, auditors, presented their report to the council, and it was referred to the Finance Committee to examine and report.

The auditors also asked that their remuneration be fixed at $35. The work of auditing the town accounts was well worth the amount asked. They stated that the work of auditing the electric light accounts was equal to that of the county, town and school accounts all put together. Filed.

The tenders for the sale of the market tolls were opened and read. There was only two tenders. Frank Bowen offered $275 per year, and J. Storms offered $250. The by-law in reference to the sale of the market tolls says "they shall be sold to the highest bidder," so consequently they were awarded to Mr. F. Bowen for the year 1911.

The Fire Water and Light Committee reported recommending the purchase of the following articles for the fire brigade: 6 pairs rubber boots, 6 rubber coats, 6 caps.

Report adopted.

The Town Property Committee presented a report recommending that use of the Wright property be given the Local Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire for the purposes named in the bequest, upon certain conditions.

The report did not appear just satisfactory to the council and was referred back to the committee to furnish a report as to the cost of repairs specified in the report.

Coun. Waller asked for and was granted further time in reference to the by-law which he intended to present to the council in reference to the sale of milk and meat. He stated that the same question was before the Ontario Legislature and whatever action was taken by that body would have to be embodied in the proposed by-law.

A by-law for the appointment of a Medical Health Officer was introduced and given its first reading.

The council went into committee of the whole on the second reading, Coun. Meng in the chair.

Moved by Councillors Stevens and Dickinson that the first blank be filled in with the name of Dr. C. M. Stratton.

Moved in amendment by Mayor Kimmerly and Coun. Denison that the first blank be filled in with the name of Dr. Cameron Wilson.

The amendment was lost, and the original motion carried.

The salary attached to the office was fixed at $75 and the by-law was given its third reading and finally passed.

A by-law was introduced to repeal by-law No. 349. This by-law was intended to do away with the by-law which allowed any person to

Friends Call Her "Cuckoo."

Lady Shaftesbury's position in the household of the Queen is unchanged. She was for some years Lady of the Bedchamber to the Princess of Wales, and now that that august lady is Queen she serves her in the same capacity. The Countess of Shaftesbury is a daughter of Lady Grosvenor and a sister of the Duke of Westminster and Lady Beauchamp. She is a pretty woman, and is also very clever and cultured. Her names are Constance Sibell, but she is known to her friends as "Cuckoo." Her only son, Lord Ashley, is ten years of age, and she has two pretty little girls, one about eight and the other only three years old. Lady Shaftesbury is an accomplished actress, and often has theatricals at her home. She owns some very lovely jewels, among which are noticeable a set of sapphires and diamonds, which were a wedding present from her grandfather, the late Duke of Westminster. Another beautiful ornament of which Lady Shaftesbury is very fond of is a brooch which was given to her by Sir Thomas Lipton on the occasion when she named his yacht Shamrock III. The Shamrock's flag is formed of emeralds, the flag of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club is composed of sapphires and enamel, and a shamrock and figure III, in diamonds make the brooch, which is a beautiful and unique piece of jewelry.

ANCIENT MARINERS.

Queer Beliefs They Held About the Unexplored Ocean.

The landlocked Mediterranean, which was the only sea known to the Romans and Greeks of twenty odd centuries ago, was filled with mysterious terrors, while the more distant lands bordering on it were the abodes of wonders and strange peoples. Gods of monstrous shapes ruled the waters, enchanting sirens dwelt on the islets and rocks, and on the dry land beyond were to be found weird enchantresses, fire-breathing beasts, fierce pygmies and dreadful cannibals. Adventurous voyagers who got as far as the pillars of Hercules, now called the Strait of Gibraltar, brought back intelligence that the great ocean beyond was not navigable. It was part of the mighty river which flowed around the flat earth in an unending stream.

Tradition says that there was in those times at Gibraltar a stone pillar 100 cubits high, with a brass statue on it and an inscription stating this to be the limit of navigation. Beyond was a "sea of darkness," infested with terrors beyond the power of the imagination to conceive. Occasionally a bold navigator did, nevertheless, venture outside into the Atlantic, but was compelled to turn back very quickly. A whirlwind would arise and threaten to swamp the vessel, or, more alarming still, a gigantic hand, supposed to be that of Satan, would emerge from the ocean of eternal gloom and warn back the mariners.

Not merely on these accounts was the ocean impracticable for ships. It was reported to be so dense with saltiness and so crowded with seaweeds and huge beasts that headway could not be made through it. Even up to the time of Columbus such beliefs prevailed, and his crews were terrified on entering the Sargasso sea by the weeds and calms.

Flying Predictions.

In 1273 Friar Bacon predicted that flying would "shortly" become a general practice, and Bishop Wilkins in 1652 said, "It will yet be as usual to hear a man call for his wings when he is going on a journey as it is now to hear him call for his boots."

THE TORONTO SUNDAY WORLD.

A high-class weekly publication embodying all the special features of the best American Sunday papers, including four-color comic section, four-color magazine section, two-color editorial section, music page, fashion and beauty page in black, and an exclusive halftone picture section printed on calendered paper, representative of people and places distinctly Canadian.

This high-class publication should be in every rural home in Ontario.

Money can be made by bright boys in every village and town, who will undertake the sale of The Sunday World. Write to The Sunday World, Toronto, Canada, for particulars of how to secure an agency. Prizes, dear to the heart of every boy, will be given to those showing the largest sale in a given period.

The Daily World, Canada's leading live stock and produce market newspaper, is clubbed with this paper at the rate of $3.00 per year for the two.

Moved in amendment by Mayor Kimmerly and Coun. Denison that the first blank be filled in with the name of Dr. Cameron Wilson.

The amendment was lost, and the original motion carried.

The salary attached to the office was fixed at $75 and the by-law was given its third reading and finally passed.

A by-law was introduced to repeal by-law No. 349. This by-law was intended to do away with the by-law which allowed any connection between hotels and pool or billiard rooms.

On the second reading it was moved by Coun. Waller, seconded by Mayor Kimmerly, and resolved, that the committee rise and report progress and beg leave to sit again, and in the meantime each member of the board acquaint himself with the conditions affected by the proposed by-law in order that each member may understand the situation thoroughly.

A by-law was passed appointing Wm. Finkle sanitary inspector for the town of Napanee, for the year 1911, at a salary of $50 per annum.

On motion of Councillors Waller and Stevens it was decided that no renewals of billiard and pool room licenses, nor any new licenses would be granted until after the disposal of the by-law introduced by Coun. Stevens at this session.

Moved by Coun. Waller, seconded by Coun. Meng, and resolved that the treasurer furnish this council at its next session with a detailed statement of all accounts owing to the town, the name of the debtor, the amount of the account, and the particulars of the same.
